URGES TRIAL OF PANAMA LIBELS

Government Files Brief Against World Publishers.

ATTACK POSITION OF THE DEFENSE

Insists Convenience of Criminal Never is Consulted in Trial.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Briefs on behalf of the government and the Press Publishing company, of New York, were filed in the supreme court of the United States today in what is termed the Panama libel case. The case is that in which former President Roosevelt ordered the department of justice to proceed against the publishers of the New York World, because of the publication of stories to the effect that there had been favoritism in the purchase of the Panama canal property by which capitalists, including Charles P. Taft, brother of President Taft, Douglas Robinson, brother-in-law of former President Roosevelt, and others were charged with having reaped great financial benefit.

Because of the fact that the World circulated upon the government reservation at West Point, the libel proceedings were brought in the federal courts and on the legality of this action depended the chief contentions of the defendants' counsel.

"In effect," says the government's brief, "the published articles charge that Charles P. Taft, Douglas Robinson and Wm. Nelson Cromwell with J. Pierpont Morgan and others acting through an American syndicate, obtained control of the securities of the French company which owned the Panama canal route and its properties, for the approximate sum of $3,000,000. Aided by the intimacy which they enjoyed with Theodore Roosevelt, then president of the United States and brother-in-law of Douglas Robinson, and Wm. H. Taft, then secretary of war and brother of Charles P. Taft, and by the co-operation of these officials with them, they were enabled to effect the sale of the Panama canal to the United States for $40,000,000 and reap a profit of some $36,000,000 which was divided as charged, among government favorites in the world of politics and finance.

Question of Jurisdiction.

The substantial question which the government claims is before the court, was set out in the brief, as being whether the United States courts have jurisdiction to punish a corporation which printed in the city of New York a newspaper containing a libel criminal under the laws of the state of New York and circulated copies of the same within the federal territory of West Point. The government's claim is based on an act of congress of 1898 which the government argues "operates to transfer the state law to federal territory, for the purpose of punishing acts committed there, which if performed outside and in the jurisdiction of the state would be amenable to its laws."

In the government's brief, it is argued that it is not only the right but the duty of congress so to legislate concerning territory under its exclusive jurisdiction as to preserve peace and good order therein. "Because one may be punished for issuing a libel in New York is no reason" say the government "for allowing him to go free of all punishment for circulating it at West Point. The people in the latter place are entitled to protection."

The inconvenience to accused of being subjected to prosecution in sundry places where their alleged libels are circulated was met with the argument that "The inconvenience which may be suffered by criminals has not generally been regarded as adequate reason for permitting them to operate without restraint."

The suggestion that the offense charged could be punished in New York state courts and therefore was not intended to be included in the act of 1898 brought forth the argument from the government "That the state of New York cannot punish an offense committed at West Point against the United States."

Defendant's Brief Filed.

A brief for the Press Publishing company was filed by Delancy Nicoll, of New York, and associate counsel. This brief contended that even though the language of the act of 1898 was literally broad enough to cover the case, it should not be so construed for several reasons. The first of these was that the "general acquiescence of legal minds for nearly a century in the negative of the proposition forbids the construction, now for the first time asserted by the government."

"During this period we have passed through the most momentous events of our history," said the attorneys. "Four wars have been fought, we have lost three presidents by assassination, we have passed through twenty presidential elections, we have survived a number of financial panics, but notwithstanding this and other crises in our national existence and all the fierce discussions of the press which accompanied them, no one has ever claimed till now that the courts of the United States have jurisdiction to punish a libel first printed, published and circulated in one of the states, and which in the course of a general circulation has happened to penetrate into these federal reservations."

Another reason advanced against the government's construction was that "The whole history and life of the country is utterly at variance with any such construction."

The necessary result of such a construction, it was contended, would be to confer upon the national authority a general control over the press of the country.

WORLD'S SERIES GAME GOES OVER

Wet Grounds and Bad Day Forces Postponement in Chicago.

REPRIEVE MAY BE HELP TO THE CUBS

Phillies Likely to Get a Bit of Profit from the Rest.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Wet grounds and a drizzling intermittent rain caused a postponement today of the fourth scheduled world's championship game between the Philadelphia Americans and the Chicago nationals. It will be played off here tomorrow. Should Chicago win the fifth game will be fought out on the local grounds also.

Chairman Herrmann made the announcement after an examination of the grounds by the umpiring staff. The latter found that the base lines were small rivulets and the whole field saturated. There was likewise, the official prediction that more or less rain would fall throughout the day and night, and there was nothing to do but order the postponement.

Prospect for Tomorrow.

The forecast for tomorrow is "fair and cooler." Forecaster David Cuthbertson stated that the weather probably would begin to clear tonight and there might be even a bit of sunlight tomorrow.

About 200 persons, including a number of women with forlorn and dejected headgear, were lined up in the rain waiting for the ticket windows to open when the announcement was made. There were also many boys who had hoped to sell their positions to late comers.

If there is any advantage to anybody in the postponement it is said to accrue to the Nationals on the theory that any possible change affecting them in their present gloomy position can be only for the better.

Helps Quakers Also.

A day's rest, however, can do the Athletics no harm. In the unexpected event that Bender should be hit freely tomorrow Coombs, with a day's recuperation to buoy him up, could be used again.

Brown and Cole, either of whom may pitch for the locals, are in no particular need of a vacation. Cole has not pitched so far, and Brown has not worked since Tuesday when the Athletics drove him from the box. Captain Chance, of the Chicago team, said that the day of idleness might prove the turning point in the series. Connie Mack accepted the incident as a mere delay of 24 hours in annexing the world's championship emblem.

Will Play in Philadelphia.

The national commission decided that in the event it is necessary to play a sixth game it shall be played on Tuesday at Philadelphia, allowing Monday for the clubs to make the trip from Chicago.

Inquiry among members of the national commission today developed no evidence of a desire to punish Captain Chance further for disputing the umpires in yesterday's game. His offense had nothing about it of a disorderly character, it is said, and the commission members feel that being ordered off the grounds was sufficient punishment.

Some of the Dope.

The Americans have made 36 hits for a total of 53 bases, as against Chicago's 17 hits for 24 bases. They have batted an average of .356 compared with .189 by their rivals. In fielding the Nationals are 59 points behind the Americans, their respective percentages being .891 and .950. Philadelphia has won her games with the use of only ten men, while Manager Chance has employed eighteen.

BRYAN WARS ON UNCLE JOE.

Commoner Invades the Speaker's Congressional District.

Watseka, Ill., Oct. 21.—William J. Bryan came into the Eighteenth congressional district this afternoon to assist W. L. Cundiff, the democratic nominee for congress, in his race against Speaker Cannon. He is speaking here this afternoon to a crowd of about 500 people in the opera house. The visit of Mr. Bryan to this district is in payment of a debt of gratitude, which he has owed Mr. Cundiff for many years, the latter having nominated the Nebraskan for congress when Mr. Bryan was first a candidate.

His speech this afternoon, while largely sentimental was in keeping with the democratic platform. Mr. Cundiff was also present and made a short address. Mr. Bryan will speak at Danville tomorrow evening.

WILL CONTINUE FIGHT ON GREED

Senator Beveridge Says He Doesn't Propose to Surrender.

IS HEARD AT RINK AND COURT HOUSE

Raps Cline, Lauds Heaton and Urges Support for Republican Ticket.

"President Taft in his speech at Winona asserted that some of the schedules in the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill were indefensible, but that he signed the measure because, owing to combinations, which had been formed, further fight against injustice in certain lines meant the wreck of the whole bill. Well, so far as I am concerned, I do not propose to surrender!"

This was the keynote of the address of Senator Albert J. Beveridge at Princess rink Thursday night, and vociferous applause followed the dramatic declaration by the senior Indiana senator. "The politicians of all parties may as well know now, once and for all, that office for the mere honor has no attraction for me," continued Senator Beveridge. "Twelve years in the thick of the fight at Washington has pretty nearly burned the ambition out of me. I don't think anything is worth while any longer except to give one's heart-beats to the cause of the people. I'm willing to stay in the struggle if I can make a clean fight; if not, I'll not ask you to reelect me. I'll get out of it myself."

Spoke at Two Points.

Senator Beveridge, always a favorite of his party in Fort Wayne, made two addresses in this city Thursday night. The audience at Princess rink was large, but there was little resemblance to the crush which has greeted him here on previous occasions. It is believed to have been the smallest audience to which the senator ever spoke at Princess rink, not all the chairs being occupied. Yet it received him kindly, and in several instances manifested its approval of the senator in prolonged cheering.

The overflow meeting at the court house assembly room was slimly attended until the arrival of Senator Beveridge shortly after 10 o'clock. Then the crowd rushed in and completely filled the room, overflowing into the lobby. Ex-Congressman Fred Landis, of Logansport, who was to have spoken at the court house prior to the coming of Senator Beveridge, did not arrive, and in his stead Attorney Voorhees, of Kokomo, followed City Attorney Hogan, who was chairman of the court house meeting. Judge O. N. Heaton, nominee for congress, also spoke at both meetings and was given a warm greeting.

Late in Reaching Rink.

Senator Beveridge and his party, who arrived in the city shortly after 7 o'clock, were late in reaching Princess rink, coming in automobiles escorted by the Tippecanoe club and headed by the City Packard band. There was applause for both Judge Heaton and Senator Beveridge, who came upon the stage escorted by B. Paul Mossman. Judge R. S. Taylor and other local party leaders. Mr. Mossman presided as chairman, and he first presented Judge Heaton.

The congressional nominee responded in a graceful little address. No citizen, he said, rises to his full duty who does not give serious consideration to public questions and public welfare. He urged the progress that brings not mere wealth, but a higher ideal of national life and private citizenship. "This is not the age of the stand-pat in politics or in business," declared Judge Heaton. "I do not believe in the stand-pat republican or the stand-pat democrat. Nor is this the time to 'let well enough alone' if we can make that 'well enough' better." There was a brief reference to the tariff question. Judge Heaton declaring for a tariff commission, and he followed with the declaration that more important than his own election to congress is the return of Senator Beveridge to the senate.

An Exchange of Bouquets.

At this juncture Judge Robert S. Taylor was presented, and he explained that he desired but a moment in order to make a statement that only he, with propriety, could make. He said that once in his lifetime he had nourished an ambition to be a member of the United States senate; that some of his friends had encouraged him in that direction. He had waited until he had reached the age of 60 years, and then made the attempt.

"I was afraid of Hanly," said Judge Taylor. "I did not seriously consider the possibility of defeat by a young man then just out of college. But he beat me. (Laughter.) I at once flung away ambition. From that day to this the bee has never buzzed in my vicinity. Today I am working harder to see Senator Beveridge returned for the third time than I worked to keep him from being sent to the senate when I was a candidate."

Tribute to Judge Taylor.

When Charles H. Worden presented Senator Beveridge he declared that he knew Senator Beveridge needed no introduction to the people of Fort Wayne, and then reversed the order, introducing the audience to Senator Beveridge.

"But, Mr. Chairman," said Senator Beveridge in opening, "Fort Wayne needs no introduction to me." Then followed a magnificent tribute to Judge Taylor. "I, also, want to make a remark that none other can make with so much propriety as myself," said

RETURNS TO HER OLD SWEETHEART

Bride-to-Be Flees Just Before Date for Wedding to Another.

ILLINOIS LOVER MAKES FUTILE PLEA

Miss Messman Changes Her Mind and Maumee Township Wedding is Off.

Two days before she was to have become the bride of an Illinois young man, and after invitations had been issued for the nuptial ceremony, which was to occur at Woodburn Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Miss Augusta Messman, of Maumee township, changed her mind and fled with Elmer Jones, of Woodburn, a former lover, whose attentions she had looked upon with favor before the advent of the Illinois sweetheart.

Naturally the wedding had to be called off. Miss Messman and Mr. Jones are now at the home of relatives of the young woman at Macy. They will return home in a few days and their marriage will occur later. The effort of the Illinois young man, George Ackley, of Tuscola, to induce Miss Messman to reconsider her determination and marry him has proven futile and he has returned home disconsolate, after receiving back the presents he had given the young woman whom he expected to claim as his bride.

Had Won Her Heart.

Miss Messman is a well known and highly esteemed young woman whose parents are dead and who has been making her home with her grandfather in Maumee township. For some time the young woman and Elmer Jones, of Woodburn, have been devoted to each other, and friends regarded their marriage as a matter of natural consequence.

Some months ago, however, Miss Messman went to Illinois on a visit to friends, and here she met a young man named George Ackley. Eventually they became engaged. Friends looked with favor upon the match, and when Miss Messman came back to Maumee township a short time ago it was with the wedding day set. Invitations were issued for the marriage on Thursday, and a number of relatives from a distance had already arrived for the ceremony, which was to have been solemnized in the Lutheran church at Woodburn.

Then Girl Disappears.

Meanwhile, her regard for her former sweetheart seems to have arisen to threaten her happiness with the newer lover and on Monday evening Miss Messman disappeared. It later developed that she had gone to Antwerp, Ohio, where Mr. Jones had joined her and together they had driven to the home of an uncle, David Jones, near Macy, this state. It is believed the lovers passed through Fort Wayne on Tuesday.

Illinois Man Arrives.

Almost at the same time Mr. Ackley came from his home in Illinois to claim his bride, and a number of his friends were with him to be present at the happy consummation of the love match. The Illinois lover was astounded at the turn affairs had taken, and he at once sought the aid of Sheriff Reichelderfer in finding his sweetheart, confident that if he could but talk to her he could induce her to return and become his bride. It was learned that the lovers had fled to Macy.

Leaving Fort Wayne in a big touring car early Thursday morning Ackley, with Sheriff Reichelderfer and two uncles of the young man, drove to Macy, where Ackley had a conference with Miss Messman. She told him that she had changed her mind and could not marry him, and turned a deaf ear to his entreaties to return to him and have the wedding ceremony performed as arranged.

Gave His Presents Back.

Miss Messman explained that she had fled as the only course that seemed open to her, and that she and Mr. Jones expected to remain with relatives at Macy until after the date for the wedding with Ackley, and that they would then return home and be married later. She returned a number of valuable presents which Ackley had given her, and the disappointed lover was compelled to cancel his wedding invitations.

Friends of Miss Messman say that the case was in no sense an elopement. The young woman is of legal age and her right to return to her old sweetheart, if she believed she could be happier with him than with the newer lover, could not be questioned. All the parties concerned in the affair are well known and highly esteemed, and it has occasioned something of a sensation in Maumee township.

GIANTS WIN FOURTH GAME AND TAKE SERIES

Highlanders Are Beaten in Inter-City Championship Battles.

New York, Oct. 21.—By a score of six to three the New York Nationals today defeated the New York Americans in the post season inter-city series and took the championship with four games won and one tie. The Americans won two out of the seven played.

Christy Mathewson was sent against the Highlanders in the crucial game and was hit freely during the engagement but his support was better than that given Warhop, chosen by Manager Hal Chase to stop the McGraw crowd.

The battle was fought under adverse weather conditions as the sky was overhung during the forenoon with heavy clouds that promised to make a postponement necessary. It was dark this afternoon when the teams took the field and a chilly wind blew across the field but this did not deter the fans who turned out in goodly numbers to watch the fray. Score by innings:

RAILROAD FIGHTS INQUIRY.

Big Four Will Not Furnish Information as to Operators.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 21.—H. F. Houghton, general superintendent of the Big Four Railroad company, has declined, on the advice of counsel, to furnish the state railroad commission with data showing the ages and service records of telegraph operators employed on the company's lines and has been officially notified that the commission will go into the Marion county courts in an attempt to compel him to supply the information. The formal demand was made on Mr. Houghton for the desired information after the commission had completed its investigation of the recent wreck at Brightwood.

CRIPPEN DEFENSE IS MADE TO JURY

Alleged Slayer of Belle Elmore Has Rested His Case.

ATTORNEY MUIR SEARCHES DOCTOR

Crippen Admits Many of His Lies and Smiles at His Ingenuity.

London, Oct. 21.—The defense in the case of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, charged with the murder of his wife rested today with the summing up address by Counsel Alfred A. Tobin. Richard Muir will close for the prosecution tomorrow morning, after which the case will go to the jury. A verdict is expected tomorrow afternoon.

For four hours today Dr. Crippen was subjected to a searching cross examination by Mr. Muir. He stood the ordeal well. This was not, however, without an effort on his part and when he returned to the prisoner's dock the witness was deathly pale.

Clings to Old Story.

Crippen clung to his original story "His wife's fondness for another led to an estrangement; she threatened frequently to leave him and finally made good her threats; he had no idea what became of her. He told the stories of her death only to cover up a scandal and fled when he realized that he was under suspicion. He had purchased hyoscin, but only to use in the preparation of medicines. He admitted, however, that he bought the drug on but one occasion and he could not name any one for whom he had prescribed it.

Not a Scar, Say Experts.

The defense called two medical experts who gave the opinions that the mark found on the body unearthed in the cellar of Crippen's home was not a scar. Experts for the prosecution had sworn that a scar existed and the crown has attempted to prove that it corresponded with a wound made by a surgeon's knife on the body of Belle Elmore twelve years ago. Crippen said that Ethel Clara Leneve slept in his home on the night of the day following the date of his wife's disappearance.

Addressing the jury Mr. Tobin reviewed the evidence at length, contending it was impossible for the jury to find a verdict of guilty.

He said it was inconceivable that if Crippen murdered his wife and mutilated her body he should invite Miss Leneve to sleep in the house on the following night. Crippen had only the night of February 1 in which to dissect the body, bury the flesh and get rid of the head and limbs. He must have known the risks of such a visit as Miss Leneve made.

When Mr. Muir closed the court was adjourned.

Matches Wits With Muir.

Crippen matched wits in his trial today with Richard Muir, one of the cleverest criminal lawyers in England.

The fact that the defendant was to undergo a cross examination by this representative of the crown increased interest in the proceedings and when Lord Chief Justice Alverstone entered the New Bailey court room and the prisoner at the same time took his place in the dock the spectators were awaiting the opening of the contest between the keen lawyer and the cool doctor.

Mrs. Frances E. Beauchamp, of Lexington, president of the Kentucky Woman's Christian Temperance union, has announced her candidacy for congress in the Seventh Kentucky district. The principal plank in her announced platform is directed against the liquor traffic.

GIVES SELVES UP FOR LOST THEN RIDE OUT STORM

Vessel Reaches New York After Awful Battle With Hurricane.

New York, Oct. 21.—With her thirty or more passengers heartily thankful that they were able to set foot on land once more, after passing safely through the thick of the tropical hurricane, the Southern Pacific steamer Comus reached port today from New Orleans, four days late. The Comus left New Orleans on Wednesday, Oct. 12, and had hardly got out into the gulf when the storm broke.

"Things began to look alarming on Thursday," said C. DeF. Molyneaux, a passenger, "and on Friday conditions grew rapidly worse. By Friday night we were in the thick of the hurricane, which Capt. Maxon said was the worst he had experienced in seventeen years of sailing in the water. Although the hatches were battened down and everything locked tight, water forced its way into some of the state rooms. The decks were continually swept, the steamer pitched and rolled frightfully and everybody, even Captain Maxon, gave up the ship for lost.

An effort was made to find the vessel's location by soundings, but without result. By Monday things were improved enough to give us some confidence and on Tuesday when the captain was able to get an observation and head for the Florida straits, we all felt that we had weathered the worst experience in our lives."

ALL RESCUED; SHIP A LOSS.

Key West, Fla., Via Havana, Oct. 21.—The United States cutter Forward returned here today bringing the rest of the passengers from the French trans-Atlantic steamer Louisiane, which went ashore on Sombrero reef during the hurricane of Monday. About half of the 547 passengers reached here yesterday.

The captain of the Louisiane reports it will be impossible to save his ship. The cargo has been recovered. He is still awaiting orders from the owners.

The captain of the Norwegian steamer Fos, which is fast in the quicksand at Marqueses, has arrived at Tortugas island and reports his vessel in good condition. He will return to her today to discharge her cargo whereupon he expects that she will float. The bark Hugo was towed into port last night by the tug Astral.

A derelict is reported near Sand Key.

The ballast steamer Miami will leave today for Jacksonville with the mails. The steamer Mascotte is expected from Jacksonville with mails during the day. Cable Manager Adkins left yesterday with two chartered vessels fully equipped to make repairs in the Miami cable.

WORST IS KNOWN: NOT SO BAD.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 21.—Only the disasters at sea remained to be counted in obtaining complete reports of the damage done by the great hurricane which swept this state early this week. Although wire and rail communication has not been restored to many places in the state, including Miami and Keywest, all points for which fears were entertained have been heard from, and all weathered the big blow in fairly good shape. Although the total damage will reach into the hundreds of thousands it is evenly distributed and probably will not fall as an oppressive burden on any particular community.

The tale of shipwrecks is not expected to be complete for a week.

J. J. Flynn left yesterday for Eaton Rapids to take up the duties of Lake Shore agent at that place.

SMITH WANTS JURY UNLESS HE GETS WITNESSES

Man Under Arrest for Robbery Shows Knowledge of Law—Courts.

When John Smith was arraigned in the circuit court today on the charge of robbing Albert Bixler, he stated first that he was willing to submit his case to the judge, then changed his mind and said he would want a jury unless he can get some witnesses from Marion. Pat Burke was arrested with him and both cases were continued until Tuesday of next week and subpoenas were issued for the witnesses.

Smith showed a rather intimate knowledge of court procedure in the matter of selecting how his case shall be tried. Bixler was robbed and thrown over the Clinton street dump. Later Smith and Burke were arrested and one of them had a pocket knife that Bixler and the members of his family identified.

Says He Left Her.

In the superior court Edith L. Cooper was granted a divorce from Edward Cooper. She stated that he got up one morning, told her she would never see him again and left. She has not seen him.

Court Notes.

Fannie Brunner has entered suit in the superior court against Louis C. Brunner, asking a divorce, the custody of their three children and $20 a month alimony. He is charged with having struck, kicked and beaten her and with calling her vile names. C. W. Porter filed the suit.

Coroner A. J. Kesler has filed his records of the inquests in the cases of Harold Nelson, Daniel Dubach, John Johnson, Frederick G. Jones, Clyde M. Brown, Margaret Triholet and Amos Ellenberger, who were killed in the Fort Wayne & Wabash Valley Traction company's wreck at Kingsland.

Charles Buesching has filed suit for $300 damages against the Fort Wayne Box company for the loss of the end of one of his fingers in the machinery at the company's plant. Emrick and Emrick are his attorneys.

The Leikauf Packing company has begun an action against the Nickel Plate railroad to recover $400 for the loss of a team that was killed by one of the trains on the road. Emrick and Emrick filed the suit.

NEW ENGINEER WAS SHOWING 'EM.

Upper Sandusky, O., Oct. 21.—That the ditching of Hocking Valley passenger train No. 33 near Harpster yesterday, which caused the death of three passengers and injury to more than a score, was the direct result of excessive speed maintained by an engineer taking his first passenger run over the road, is a charge that will be investigated by Coroner J. C. Raugh and Prosecuting Attorney Newell. A conference will be held this afternoon. Most of those seriously hurt are in the hospital or at their homes.

LIBERATE MAN SOON TO DIE IN CHAIR FOR MURDER

Mob of Virginia Mountaineers Swoop Down at Night on Jail.

Lovingston, Va., Oct. 21.—Mountaineer friends of John Moore, under sentence to be electrocuted for the murder of Frank Howl, descended upon the Nelson county jail here at 1 o'clock this morning, stormed the building and rescued the prisoner. It is supposed he will be taken to the mountains and liberated.

When the people of the county seat were asleep a crowd of seventy-five fully armed men from the mountain section, where the crime was committed, proceeded quietly to the county jail. Admission was gained to the building and the guards awed into comparative non-resistance. The cell where Moore was locked up was soon found and he was taken out. It is feared that bloodshed will follow any attempt of the authorities to re-capture the murderer. Moore was condemned to pay the death penalty by electrocution at Richmond on Nov. 25, after having been convicted of having murdered Frank Howl, in Nelson county, last May. Many of the mountaineer friends of the condemned man believed him innocent of the crime. The only telephone wire leading into the section of the country where the crime was committed, and where Moore's friends live, was cut before the rescue operations were begun. This leads to the belief that Moore has been carried there to be liberated.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

FARMERS WOULD HELP WAYWARD SONS

Make Pleas to Judge for Leniency to Bluffton Boys Who Stole Bicycles.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 21.—Charles L. Bolinger, a farmer and tile manufacturer living five miles northeast of Bluffton, and his son-in-law, Charles Ake, were in the city yesterday to see Judge Cook relative to the cases of Pearl Bolinger and Homer Craig, the confessed wheel thieves. The men were greatly moved by the trouble the young men had got into and made a plea for leniency to Judge Cook, who will dispose of the case later.

Mr. Bolinger said that the two boys had previously borne a spotless reputation and their friends were unable to understand this lapse. Young Bolinger is the junior partner of the firm of Bolinger & Sons, being associated with his father and an older brother in the manufacture of tile and in farming sixty-four acres of land. Craig is a nephew of the older Bolinger and has been employed by him for the last two years.

Young Bolinger was taken to Fort Wayne yesterday by Deputy Chief Bischoff. The young man could not tell exactly at which of the second hand stores he had disposed of the stolen wheel, and the trip there yesterday was for the purpose of locating the Wetter bicycle.

Deputy Bischoff and Bolinger were unable to locate the wheel, as the second-hand dealer had already sold it. Mr. Wetter went to Fort Wayne in the afternoon and with the deputy sheriff, further effort was made to get the stolen wheel, the dealer giving them the name and residence of the party who had bought it.

DO NOT LIKE AUTOISTS.

Put Garden Rake in Road to Destroy Auto Tires.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 2.—Autoists from this city and Montpelier who motor between the two towns a great deal complain of the means taken by farmers along the road to vent their spite on automobiles and motor enthusiasts in general.

One night this week a Hartford City autoist who was returning from Montpelier overtook a Montpelier automobile owner whose machine had been put out of commission. Eight prongs of a garden rake had been place upright in the road and every one of the iron prongs had entered two tires of the machine. The tires were almost ruined. The autoists suspect a farmer living near where the accident occurred, who is known to bear the automobilists a grudge.

DEATH OF YOUNG MAN.

Angola, Ind., Oct. 21.—After an illness of only three days, Charles Drushel, son of Henry Drushel, of Scott township, succumbed to that fatal disease, spinal meningitis, at the home of his parents. His age was about twenty years.

MEL MILLER'S AUTO DITCHED BY A COW

The Bovine Just Jumped in Front of the Speeding Machine and Did It.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 21.—Mel Miller, the hardware dealer, and a party of friends had an accident Wednesday evening, returning home from Fort Wayne, at 6:30 o'clock, which might have resulted in loss of life, but fortunately did not, although the occupants of the auto were more or less bruised when it was ditched on the Sam Beeson hill.

Mr. Miller left during the afternoon in his Ford auto for Fort Wayne, accompanied by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Tom Miller, Miss Ruth Clark and Scott Brand. Mrs. Miller and baby remained in Fort Wayne, and the returning party were a trifle late in getting started home. They endeavored to get home before it became too dark, and were at the Sam Beeson hill, running probably thirty-five miles an hour, and had started down hill when a cow that was grazing along the road jumped out of the ditch directly in front of the machine. It stood there until the machine was almost upon it, and nothing was left to do but throw the machine into the ditch, where it turned turtle.

The glass wind shield was smashed and the fenders bent, and the radiator slightly damaged, but no other serious results occurred. Brand was able to crawl from under the machine after he had extricated his left leg from beneath the auto. He thought it was broken at first, but found that he could stand on it. The driver of the machine also got out without a scratch, and with the assistant of Brand was able to life the machine, until Mrs. Clark could craw lout. She suffered some painful bruises on her limbs, but was not otherwise injured. All were badly frightened.

Will Nott came along with Meyer Bros.' mule team in time to assist with the rescue, and pulled the machine upright again and into the road. An examination showed that a large quantity of gasoline had been spilled, and the machine was hauled to the city. Thursday it was started and all the mechanism was found in working order. It was a narrow escape and was due wholly to the unexpected which is liable to confront any autoist without a minute's warning.

HAS BOUGHT FRUIT FARM.

Interurban Motorman Resigned to Go to California.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 21.—Motorman Fred Smith, of the Fort Wayne & Springfield railway has resigned his position and will leave Sunday for Los Angeles, Cal., near which place he will purchase a fruit farm, intending to enter with all earnestness into the production of oranges and grapes. Mr. Smith will begin with about six acres of land and then increase his farm from time to time, setting out his own trees and vines. A farm of six acres, each acre of which, worth about $1,000 in that vicinity, is more rich in close cultivation than ten-fold the acreage of general cultivation here, and Mr. Smith, in that agreeable climate, is anticipating an ideal home. Mrs. Smith and little daughter, Vesta, will remain here until about the holidays, or until Mr. Smith gets things more established there, when they will follow. Mr. Smith has been with the interurban since its beginning, coming here four years ago September 4th, and when the cars began running the following January 1st, began service as motorman, serving continually since.

BLOOD DISEASES
CONTAGIOUS TROUBLES

Contagious Blood Poison more thoroughly permeates the system than any other disease. Its infectious virus contaminates every corpuscle and tissue of the circulation, and for this reason its symptoms are of a varied nature. When it enters the blood it is but a short time until the mouth and throat begin to ulcerate, the skin becomes spotted, rashes and eruptions appear on the body, sores and ulcers break out, the hair falls, and frequently nails on hands and feet thicken and come off. Mineral medicines which simply shut the poison up in the system should be avoided, for when such treatment is left off the old disease will break out again, often worse than before. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison permanently, and it does so because it thoroughly purifies the blood. S. S. S. goes into the circulation, and drives out the last trace of the destructive germs, adds richness and vigor to the circulation and allows it to nourish the diseased portions of the body back to health. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, without a particle of mineral, and its vegetable ingredients always hasten the cure by toning up the stomach and digestive members. Home Treatment book and any medical advice free to all who write.

When Inspiration Speeds

Mascagni Hard at Work on the Score of "Ysobel"

PIETRO MASCAGNI occupies a unique position among the great composers of the day. Few musicians have won fame other than by composition, but Mascagni has demonstrated the possession of abilities which would have won him recognition altogether apart from his celebrity as an author. His first season as manager and principal director of the Teatro Costanzo in Rome was a most unusual success not only artistically, but financially as well.

This was probably due to the fact that his repertoire was so interesting and that the artists whom he personally engaged were the best singers in Italy; in fact, the Costanzi was the only important opera house in Italy that showed a profit at the end of the season. The list of operas produced included "Tristan und Isolde," "La Boheme," "Mefistofele," "Don Carlos," "Lohengrin," "Iris," "Werther" and "Norma." The novelties were "Maia," by Leoncavallo; "Mese Mariano (Month of May), by Giordano, and "Festa del Grano" (The Harvest Festival), by Giocondo Fino. Mascagni rehearsed, staged and conducted the performances of all the above operas save "Festa del Grano," which was produced under the direction of the composer, who is a priest.

Mascagni is an indefatigable worker, and when an inspiration seizes him he forgets all about such little ordinary things as sleep and food and, to the distress of his family and friends, has frequently put in twenty-four hours' work at a solid stretch upon the theme of "Ysobel." He himself declares the latter is his greatest work, and all the world is looking forward with extraordinary interest to its production at the New theater in New York in November. Both Luigi Illica, who wrote the libretto, and Miss Bessie Abott, who is to sing the title role in the organization which will bear her own name, accompany him to New York next month.

Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss
COUNTY OF MONROE } ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

DAVID BENNETT HILL.

David Bennett Hill died in a partial obscurity that was of his own choosing. He ended his political career fourteen years ago when, retiring to the privacy of Wolfert's Roost, he withdrew from all participation in the concerns of the democratic party, then in the throes of the greatest and most radical struggle it had waged since the civil war. Soon thereafter Mr. Hill's term in the United States senate expired. He reappeared with some brilliancy three years later in the democratic convention at Kansas City, where he was the only living presence that hysteria could convert into a popular idol and he was cheered on every appearance. It was there Mr. Hill had use for all his strength of resource to ward off the calamity of being nominated for the vice presidency on the ticket with Mr. Bryan. Richard Croker tried to stir the convention to such a tide of enthusiasm as would sweep over Mr. Hill's objections and protests and nominate him willy nilly. He came near succeeding and an ironic achievement it would have been. Again in four years Mr. Hill gave a flash of himself in the convention which named Alton B. Parker. Then he retired not to come forth any more to the gaze of the general. In himself David B. Hill had all the parts of a great man. He had intellect, persistence, capacity, the power to work, ideals and that indefinable something we call leadership. His parts were not well co-ordinated, and he was in morals lacking just that shade that gives high purpose and the right sort of courage. In politics he was an intense spoilsman and not scrupulous as to how an achievement was wrought. Cleveland's civil service reforms won him the undying hostility of the New York organization and in Chicago in 1892 Hill was the Tammany entrant against the only democratic president since Buchanan. The attempt failed and Hill went back to the senate where he consistently fought Cleveland. Then he became what he died—a great man come to little.

HEAR THOMPSON.

This is not an announcement. It is not an advertisement. It is purposed as a spur to civic duty. Go tonight to hear Mr. S. A. Thompson at the Commercial club. Mr. Thompson has come back to us to add to his former discussion of the subject of waterways. We are interested here in this deep inland waterway propaganda. The greatest prospect Fort Wayne has ever had from the day when old Mad Anthony Wayne built his rude stockade on the height overlooking the three rivers to the very moment is embraced in the possibilities of the Michigan and Erie canal by way of this city. Mr. Thompson comes to us in behalf of that project. He is an enthusiast and an expert. He is a distinguished advocate of waterway developments and is secretary of the National Rivers and Harbors congress. It is lamentable but it is true that Fort Wayne has not yet fully aroused herself to the possibilities and importance of this lake-to-lake deep waterway project. Some appear to regard it as a dream, others as a joke and still others in no wise whatever. Come out of it. Hear Mr. Thompson tonight. He is here to do us some good. At the Commercial it is.

Mr. Bryan's popularity in this state wanes none. The people go to hear him and become almost as wildly enthusiastic over him as they did back in the strenuous days of the '96 campaign, when he began the crusade against wicked interests and founded the platform that has been so deftly appropriated by the colonel, Albert Jeremiah and other reformers, progressives and insurgents. Mr. Bryan has just concluded a remarkable series of speeches in Indiana in behalf of his friend, Hon. John W. Kern, and he has been the biggest feature of the Hoosier campaign so far, not even making exception of Colonel Roosevelt.

A new trans-Atlantic liner has just been launched. She is the biggest thing afloat, only a little short of nine hundred feet in length, and is expected to be as fast as anything that rides the billows. Half a century ago the Great Eastern, two-thirds the length of the new Olympic, was proved impracticable and condemned as being vastly "too big."

It was thrilling, terrifying, perilous—but we know Walter Wellman is glad he went for he came back sound and sounding. Net results so far seem to be a prospect of having the attempt repeated on a larger and no doubt noisier scale, which is not so delectable.

When Jones brothers, buck jumpers, were showing at Whangarei, New Zealand, recently, the ringmaster called for volunteers to ride a weary looking animal named Lively Kitty. Much to the astonishment of the spectators a clergyman entered the ring—the Rev. Jasper Calder of Whangarei. After two unsuccessful attempts at mounting, due to the restlessness of the horse, Mr. Calder got safely seated. In an instant Lively Kitty showed that her title was justly earned by putting in a few good straight bucks and some nasty twists, but the reverend gentleman showed himself to be an excellent horseman by sitting calmly in the saddle until his mount had had enough.—Auckland Star.

It Is Exciting Much Interest Here

ASTONISHING GOOD IS BEING DONE ALL OVER THE STATE.

The great discovery that is creating so much talk at this point seems to be taking the whole state by storm, as reports are coming in from every direction of some astonishing good it is doing for some one who long since gave up hope of ever seeing another well day.

Hardly a day passes without some one calling at the drug store to tell of the wonderful good Root Juice is doing. The remedy has cured so many people at this point within the past few months that it has become the common talk in this locality. Much of the testimony of those whom the medicine has cured is similar to that of Mr. Charles Cunningham, who said: "I wish to thank the Root Juice people for the wonderful good I have received from the use of Root Juice. I had a bad sore stomach trouble a long time. At times any solid food would sour in my stomach and cause me to bloat so that I was in so much misery I would have to send for the doctor and have him give me something to make me throw up before I could get relief. I have used hardly four bottles of the Juice and can now eat anything without the slightest inconvenience. My digestion seems to be perfect. I have also regained my flesh and strength." So many names of people who were cured of a chronic trouble of the stomach, liver or kidneys, rheumatism or nervous weakness, have been published in this paper, that but few, if any, doubt the great value of the remedy. Consequently people continue to go from all parts of the city to the Bradley Bros. drug store, 627 Calhoun street, for some of the great health-restoring medicine, and many are coming from the country for miles around.

Curing insanity and feeble-mindedness by opening the skull and doctoring the brain has undreamed of possibilities, in the opinion of Prof. Cassius C. Rogers, of the Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery, after a sumber's study in the Paris hospitals. He thinks that the cases of half of the inmates of insane asylums are curable. Expressing these views to the Chicago Daily News, he added: "Dr. Thierry de Martel's new trephine is the only instrument known that stops as soon as the skull is penetrated and it comes in contact with the soft structures underneath. This greatly lessens the danger in operations on the head."

Bleeding Gums

When your gums bleed and are sensitive, it is the warning of Riggs Disease, and unless cared for at once the teeth will get loose and fall out.

There is only one home treatment known for this condition—Call's Anti-Riggs, used instead of the ordinary dentifrice. This quickly relieves the painful and dangerous infection, makes the gums hard and the teeth firm. Get a 50c bottle from Meyer Bros. Co. or Woodworth Drug Co., and save your teeth firm and sound for a lifetime. Used and endorsed by leading professional people who realize the attraction of perfect teeth.

If you suffer from sore mouth caused by a new plate, Call's Anti-Riggs will give quick relief.

Of the twelve states having more than 10 per cent. of illiteracy among the white population ten years ago, none gave women the school vote. HUNDREDS ATTEND FESTIVAL.

St. Andrew's Bazaar at Library Hall Two More Nights.

The record breaking attendance at the St. Andrew's fall festival at Library hall Thursday evening ably demonstrated that socially and financially the celebration is proving an eminent success. It was "Knights of Columbus" night and several hundred members of the local council participated in the event. The K. C. stein booth was the mecca for all visitors to the hall. The total receipts at this booth for the evening netted the gratifying amount of $136.95. Grand Knight Edward J. Ehrman was in active charge, assisted by Adam A. Reinhart, Dr. Edward J. McOscar, Prof. T. F. Kirby, Julian Rosenberger. Young ladies assisting were Miss Isabelle Ehrman, Miss Marie Kelly and Miss Louise Heiny.

All of the booths were liberally patronized and there was a continual demand for the choice potted plants, ferns, palms and cut flowers, especially chrysanthemums at the floral booth, of which Lanternier, florist, is in charge. A larger supply will be placed in the booth for this evening to accommodate the crowd that will enjoy the festival. This afternoon the parochial school children and all others who desire are urged to attend. Many amusements will be supplied for the boys and girls. Tonight honors will be given "political candidates" and the attendance will in all probability exceed that of any evening during the entire week.

Rev. George Horstmann, pastor of St. Andrew's church and his efficient committees are working zealously for the benefit of the new parish and the co-operation extended them in their task is heartily appreciated. The grand prize awards will be made on Saturday night, the last night of the fall festival.

FATHER L'ETOURNEAU DEAD.

Was 82 Years of Age, the Oldest Priest at Notre Dame.

The Catholic clergy of this city and diocese will be sorrowed to learn of the death at Notre Dame of the Rev. Louis L'Etourneau, aged 82 years, the oldest priest in point of service at the university. His death occurred late Wednesday night, following an illness of several weeks. He will be buried in Notre Dame community cemetery Saturday, following services and the celebration of solemn requiem mass in Sacred Heart church. The students will attend the mass.

Rev. Father L'Etourneau was a priest at Notre Dame for more than half a century, and Father Vangnier, C. S. C. is now the oldest priest in point of service. The arrangements for the funeral are that mass will be celebrated in Sacred Heart's church, Notre Dame, at 8 o'clock Saturday morning by the Rev. P. J. Franciscus, C. S. C., with veteran priests from Chicago and Fort Wayne, Ind., acting as deacon and sub-deacon. Rev. J. J. French, C. S. C., will deliver the funeral sermon.

OPENING THIS MORNING.

Forty Hours Devotion in Progress at St. Patrick's Church.

Beautiful and impressive services this morning at 9 o'clock marked the opening of the forty hours devotion at St. Patrick's church. Solemn high mass was celebrated by the rector, Rev. Joseph F. Delaney. Rev. William Hogan, of Valparaiso, was deacon; Rev. Michael Eichinger, of St. Peter's church, deacon, and Rev. James Durham, master of ceremonies. The mass was followed by an imposing procession in which not only the clergy and acolytes, but also the year's first communicants and many of the little school boys and girls participated.

Rev. John Hertenberger, C. P., a Passionist missionary from Cincinnati, who is in charge of the conduct of the devotion, delivered the sermon for the occasion. It was a thoughtful and instructive effort based on the text, "Behold I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world." (St. Matt.) After touching briefly upon the doctrine of the real presence of Christ in the sacrament of the altar, he made an earnest appeal for increased devotion to the blessed eucharist and urged that every member of every family in the parish recognize the days of the forty hours devotion as days of special and abundant graces and to avail themselves of them by frequenting the sacraments and coming often to the church for adoration of the blessed sacrament. He was heard with close interest by a large congregation. Services will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock. High mass tomorrow morning will be celebrated at 8 o'clock. The missionary will preach at the services.

APPRECIATIVE WORDS.

Congregation Holds Retiring Pastor in Their Affections.

The resolutions which were adopted by the congregation of the Third Presbyterian church in reference to the retirement as pastor of Rev. Frank M. Fox, who will leave next month to assume new duties in college work in Iowa, will be sent to the Fort Wayne Presbytery. The resolutions, as signed by F. P. Witt, chairman, and J. C. M. Baker, S. N. Longsworth and Mrs. A. L. McCurdy, as other members of the committee, had the following appreciative sentiments:

"Many words would not suffice adequately to express our appreciation, individually and collectively, of Dr. Fox's service among us; our love for him; our dependence upon him in many ways; and our sincere regret at this dissolution of our pleasant and highly profitable relations extending through five and one-half years. Our love and appreciation for Mrs. Fox is also very strong; and the sense of our loss in her departure will be very keen; be it therefore

"Resolved, That we, the members of the Third Presbyterian church, hereby express our sincere wish for a continuation, through many years, of the effective service of Dr. and Mrs. Fox, wherever they may be; that their labors may ever be attended by the knowledge that they are serving their Master well; and that many bright and shining stars be theirs in the crown above."

Dr. Fox has charge of what is known as the Maple Wood district, services being held there each evening. He has Mr. and Mrs. Eichhorn as singers and helpers.

His pulpit in this city will be supplied during the next two weeks by other ministers. Rev. T. B. Terhune, of Huntington, preaching next Sunday. No regular minister for the church has yet been secured, but the membership is in correspondence with a pastor in the west and it is possible he will be secured. The Presbyterian Record, a small weekly paper issued in the interests of the Third Presbyterian church, edited by C. M. Chambers, is now in the seventh year of its existence. It was started by Dr. J. It is circulated free among the members of the congregation and gives the church announcements each week. The present editor is making it a live church local paper. He has just completed the work of having the seven years numbers put in bound form, making two large books, in that way much of interest in church history is preserved to members.

EPICOPAL CONFERENCE ENDS.

Last Business is Defeat of the Bishops by the Deputies.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 21.—Final adjournment of the business session of the house of bishops and house of deputies of the triennial convention of Protestant Episcopalian church in America came today shortly after 1 o'clock. One important piece of business marked the closing hours, the deputies refusing to concur with the upper house in giving the ntw order of suffragan bishops votes in the convention of 1913. The sentiment of the deputies was overwhelmingly against the proposal so far as the lay delegatts were concerned. Only eight doceses were recorded in favor of the measure while 33 were registered against it. The clerical vote resulted in a tie.

Celebrated Silver Wedding.

After twenty-five years of married life, twenty-two of which have been lived away from this city, Mr. and Mrs. William Neumeyer, of Chicago, celebrated their anniversary last evening at the home of Mrs. Neumeyer's mother, Mrs. William Grage, of 505 Wallace street. There were both relatives and friends present and after the reception of the company and congratulations and good wishes had been received, Mrs. Grage and her daughter, Miss Emma Grage, served an elegant hot supper to the company. The table presented a handsome appearance in its silvery decorations. A rope of smilax extended all around the edge of the table and intertwined with it was silver tinsel. Candles were shaded in silver filagree hoods and vases of of an outdoor plant, called the silver flower, fitted perfectly to the decorations. White carnations were the only flowers used. In the parlor where Mr. and Mrs. Neumeyer and Mrs. Grage received their guests, the bay window was filled with potted ferns and vases of the carnations stood about the room. Mrs. Neumeyer wore her wedding dress, a white satin with brocaded satin waist and trimmings of princess lace, and her little niece, Hildred Gruber, dressed daintily in white, stood near her and held a bouquet of white carnations. Silver shoes and a bit of silvery looking decoration in her white hair ribbons made the little girl's costume just right. There was music during the evening and several hours were passed with much pleasure. Mr. and Mrs. Neumeyer received a number of handsome gifts. Both Mr. and Mrs. Neumeyer had felt that the anniversary could not be passed anywhere but in this city. Their marriage occurred in a house just across the street from the present residence of the Grage family and Rev. Dr. Wagenhals performed the ceremony. Mrs. Neumeyer's maiden name was Amelia Grage, and at the time of their marriage Mr. Neumeyer was employed at the Newspaper Union. Since their marriage, with the exception of three years, Mr. and Mrs. Neumeyer have lived either in Brooklyn, N. Y., or Chicago. The guests last evening were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clemens, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. 5 SIZES 32 TO 42 BUST

A charming model for a dressing sacque is pictured here, and, while it is effective, the construction is so simple that even inexperienced persons need not hesitate to attempt it.

The pattern for this garment is cut in six sizes and will fit any woman whose bust measure is between thirty-two and forty-two inches. To copy it for the average woman in materials twenty-seven inches wide three and one-quarter yards will be needed.

Of goods thirty-six inches wide two and one-quarter yards will be sufficient.

Developed in this style for autumn and winter wear, cashmere, albatross, henrietta, French flannel or challis will be satisfactory. When a material less expensive is wanted, flannelette, cotton crepe or wool and cotton mixtures may be used.

The yoke and sleeves are cut in one and to the lower edge of the yoke is joined the piece that completes the waist.

This is done by means of an ordinary seam that offers an outline for trimming. A broad collar and a tie at the waist finish the garment.

There are several inexpensive and easy ways that this jacket may be trimmed. For example, bias bands of material, piped with a contrasting color, arranged to outline the edge of the sacque, collar, sleeves and yoke, would be inexpensive ornamentation.

Bands of soft silk edged with feather stitching and worked with French knots would be exceedingly pretty on dainty light colored goods. On dark materials bands of Persian in rich oriental colors would be pleasing, or bands of plain material in a matching color could be elaborated with a little handiwork.

A negligee of China silk or crepe de chine would be attractive if trimmed with frills of soft lace and the yoke outlined with a band of the silk.

Nourishing Foods for Diabetics

With the systematic use of the various breads and biscuits made from gluten flour, supplemented by the free use of almond butter, ripe olives, olive oil and, in most cases, milk or cream, the sugar often rapidly disappears from the urine. Soups of various kinds made without beans, peas or flour, thickening being made from yolks of eggs or Irish moss, are usually allowed; also fish, green vegetables, mushrooms and light salads, dressed with French dressing or mayonnaise. Desserts containing neither sugar nor starch are limited to plain junket, plain ice cream, Irish morse, blanc mange and some fruits. Unsweetened jellies, such as calf's foot flavored with wine, can be used, or stewed fruits sweetened with saccharine instead of sugar.

All nuts but chestnuts are permitted in some instances; eggs and weak tea or coffee if sweetened with saccharine are permissible. Directions for gum gluten bread, as given by Miss A. F. Pattee, author of "Practical Diatetics," a text book for nurses, are as follows:

Gum Gluten Bread.

Soften a half yeast cake in a small portion of water taken from two cupfuls lukewarm water. Mix to a soft dough with the remainder of the water, three and a half cupfuls gum gluten ground, and a half teaspoonful of salt. Knead thoroughly to a stiff dough, using more gluten if necessary to keep it from sticking to the board. Shape into a loaf, place in a buttered pan and leave for two and a half hours to rise. The dough should be about doubled in bulk.

Bake for about forty-five minutes. If desired, the dough may be given a second mixing, after the first rising, letting it rise a third time before baking. Gum gluten bread may also be made the same as ordinary wheat flour bread with the exception of shortening, which is not required. Of course, the gluten flour is substituted for the wheat. Avoid having the water too hot or the bread will be sticky. The chill taken off is all that is necessary.

Gum Gluten Muffins.

One cupful gum gluten, self-raising, one cupful milk or milk and water, half a teaspoonful of salt and one egg. Beat the egg and add the milk. Sift the gluten and salt and gradually add the liquid and beat thoroughly. Bake in hot buttered gem pans.

Bran Bread.

Bran, although rich in some nutritive materials, contains so much fibrous substance that it is not easily digested by human beings. The use of flour containing bran, according to Miss Barrows, is to be commended to some extent, for it hastens peristaltic action. It is also true that the nutritive salts of the wheat are contained largely in the bran, and for this reason it is well at times to eat bread containing some bran. If too much is used the hurried peristaltic action hastens the food through the system before the nutriment is fully absorbed. Bran used in the following proportions, however, is beneficial even for the delicate:

Measure two cups of lukewarm water and dissolve in a small portion of it one-half a yeast cake. When dissolved add one-half teaspoonful salt, three cups gum gluten flour and one-half cup bran. Mix to a stiff dough, knead thoroughly and proceed as advised with the gluten alone.

Bran Biscuits.

Sift together one-half cupful each wheat bran and gum gluten flour, with a teaspoonful of baking powder and salt. Put in a teaspoonful melted butter and add milk to make a soft dough. Roll out, cut into biscuits and bake in a hot oven.

THE VALUE OF KIND WORDS.

They do not cost much.

It does not take up time to say them.

They can accomplish much.

They help one's own good nature.

Kind words make other people good-natured.

They shame the hearer out of unkind feelings and make morose and sour spirits become kind themselves.

Cold words freeze people, hot words scorch them, sarcastic words irritate them, and wrathful words make them wrathful; but kind words produce a picture on the mind, and it is always a beautiful picture.—Home Notes.

Small service is true service while it lasts.
Of friends, however humble, scorn not one.
The daisy, by the shadow that it casts,
Protects the lingering dewdrop from the sun.

MUCH MORE USEFUL.

A Chicago school is to be enlarged by the addition of a department in which young wives are taught how to make prospective and young husbands happy.

This may be well enough in its way, perhaps, but we are inclined to doubt it.

Aren't young husbands always happy and would the application of special and approved rules of treatment make them any more so?

What that Chicago domestic art and science school needs far more than it does the new addition is a department for making old husbands happy.

Let the faculty think it over.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FOR GIRLS WHO LACK DECISION.

Every girl ought to bear in mind that decision is one of the most important attributes of life, and that too often the truth is proved of "he who hesitates is lost." Things should never be done by halves; if a thing is right to do it must be done boldly and at once, and if it be wrong, let it severely alone. Remember that each day and its actions constitute a little life, and that our whole life is but a day repeated.

Over a cupful of English walnut meats for the salad pour boiling water and let stand for a moment. Drain, add fresh boiling water, a half teaspoonful of salt, a slice of onion and half a dozen peppercorns and boil rapidly for ten minutes; then drain, rinse well and let stand in cold water until needed. How She Keeps Her Baby Healthy—Test Free

An easy way for any mother to raise sturdy children

So far back as the memory of man goes every mother has had her own peculiar ideas about how to keep her children healthy. But women are getting to agree on the main point more and more, and that is that it is of first importance to keep the little one's bowels open.

From the bowels comes health or sickness. Unless a child is born diseased it can be kept healthy, and made to grow to vigorous maturity, if the bowels are kept free and pure in infancy and childhood. It is the main point for the mother to look after. The amount of romping and playing a child does keeps its bowels moving naturally, but there comes a time when they overeat or eat something that does not agree, and then a laxative is absolutely necessary.

Don't wait until matters get worse—give a laxative at once. What laxative are you going to give? Stewed fruit and things of that kind? No, not when the child is really constipated. Give a scientific laxative, a formula based on forty years of experience with children. Such a laxative is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of mothers are already giving in these emergencies. It is the mainstay of the children of Mrs. J. R. Whiting of Lena, Wis., Mrs. Chas. H. Reichert, Richmond Hill, L. I., and numerous others.

Don't give pills, tablets or strong cathartics for the child doesn't need it. Go to your druggist and buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of Syrup Pepsin. It is mild, gentle, free from griping and exactly suited to the needs of infants and children. If you want to try it before buying write Dr. Caldwell and he will send you a free sample bottle. He has sent thousands such bottles to mothers.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 451 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

IN THE THEATERS

"THE SIXTH COMMANDMENT.

New Play Dealing With Race Suicide is Seen at the Majestic This Afternoon and Proves to Be an Attraction Out of the Ordinary Human interest and heart throbs are the key-note of "The Sixth Commandment," Robert H. McLaughlin's new play which was seen for the first time in this city at the Majestic this afternoon and which will be seen again this evening.

It is such a play that one seldom sees in a theater these days, as it is distinctive. It has a grip that holds you. It has a depth of purpose in it that shows in a most forceful way the terrible evils of race suicide. It sounds a note of warning to those who are striving to climb the social ladder to the detriment of everything maternal and paternal. A prominent writer has taken issue with us regarding the play and asks us "is there nothing that is sacred from the drama?" But the stage is the greatest pulpit in the world, for it has the advantages of atmosphere and environment, and playwrights might be the greatest preachers in the world if they would grace their pupils with beautiful and far reaching lessons and it is a lesson that Mr. MacLaughlin is expounding through the medium of the drama the same as ex-President Roosevelt has been expounding before the educators and people of the world for the past four years. That the question is a psychological and momentous one and that the drama justifies itself is proven by an article from the bureau of statistics which says in part that "race suicide is the dominant exhibit in the new census. In former decades the average increase of internal population was 21 per cent. Census officials see in the contrast cause for alarm in this country similar to that which confronts France. They say that at this rate of decrease the native population will show an actual falling off before the time for taking another national census.

If this condition confronts the republic, which is only in its infancy, is not the press, the pulpit, or even the drama justifiable in trying to correct an evil that is the fundamental principle of civilization before it is too late? The play is splendidly cast.

"The Girl in the Taxi."

All roads theatrical will lead to the Majestic theater Saturday matinee and night, the day set for the first appearance in this city of that laughable and sensationally successful French importation, "The Girl in the Taxi," which comes with the enviable reputation of being the greatest entertainment conceited for the purpose of enjoyment ever produced on any stage. Paris and Berlin greeted it as the climax to all fun-making plays witnessed in those cities in years; Chicago theater-goers would not permit it to depart from their midst until it had broken all records for attendance and box-office receipts known in that city; Boston praised it in the most flattering terms and turned out en masse to applaud its laughable situations for nearly six months. With these endorsements "The Girl in the Taxi" may be sure of receiving an overwhelming reception in this city. Actors of the best reputations as comedians of the first rank compose the company which will be seen when the piece makes its bow for local approval.

"THE NIGGER"

Guy Bates Post and Company in Powerful Drama at the Majestic.

Not frequently is there produced so powerful a drama or one which so teems with action without being in the least sensational as that seen at the Majestic last evening when W. H. Brady's company gave "The Nigger," written by Edward Sheldon, with Guy Bates Post in the leading role. The fabric of the story is woven about a taint of negro blood in a young man who believes himself to be the scion of a pure blooded southern family, of wealth and position. His discovery of the fact comes at a time when success in his in every way. In the end he sacrifices everything but life to principle, for young Morrow is virile of character, clear in vision and fine of fibre. The work of Mr. Post as Morrow stands out as a distinctive creation of artistry in acting and nobility and consistency in conception. For two reasons the play is most impressive. They are its beauty in acting and presentation and for its force as an example in adherence to high principle. Neither Mr. Post nor Miss Florence Rockwell, as Georgiana Byrd, whom Morrow is engaged to wed, lend themselves for a moment to ordinary melodramatic expression. They have a beautiful love scene and two powerful and tense dramatic ones. Contrary to expectations the play was not harrowing nor especially tear compelling.

The work of the entire company is adequate and pleasing. Maud Durand, who is not excelled in character roles of a colored "mammy," was wonderful as Jinny. Equally fine was the acting of J. M. Colville as Clifton Noyes. The role was exacting in its demand for a climax of frenzied emotion and Mr. Colville worked up to the right pitch with remarkable skill.

The audience was unusually late in arriving and the introduction to the first act which is suggested behind the curtain and gives an insight to the scenes that follow, was entirely lost to the greater part of the audience.

Manager Mack Has a Few Superstitions of His Own

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Connie Mack, boss of the Athletics, is one of the most superstitious of men. Seldom, indeed, do his superstitions become known to the general public, but he is there with bells on at times.

For instance, he has used the same pencil to keep score all season. He used it in the first two games with the Cubs at Philadelphia, which the Athletics won. En route to Chicago, Connie loaned the pencil to his club secretary. Of course the latter forgot to return it. Connie bethought himself of the pencil at dinner Wednesday night and he had no peace of mind until the secretary—who was ignorant of the relationship of the pencil to Alladin and the Wonderful Lamp, had loaned it to a friend—had recovered it.

Tuesday Connie just had a hunch that Harry Davis would help win the game for the Athletics with timely hits. Connie watched Harry the first time up and although he filed to Hofman the Athletic generalissimo concluded that Davis would take kindly to Brown's pitching. Notwithstanding that Harry grounded to Tinker on his second trip to the plate, Connie did not lose faith in his captain. The third time he faced Brown, Harry drove out a single which scored the Mackmen's third run. The next time up, in the seventh inning, he broke up the game and also broke the Cubs' spirit with a corking double into the crowd in left. Collins and Baker were on bases at the time.

That's not all. Connie had a hunch ten weeks or three months prior to the close of the American league season that he would be forced to use young Amos Strunk in the world's series, and a month prior to the close of the campaign he started to groom the kid for service. He had him work up to form gradually. In the closing week of the season he played Strunk in several games and then he had him lay off for a couple of days. For a week prior to the world's series he had two pitchers constantly at work for an hour each morning pitching to no other player but Strunk. Connie wanted him to get his eye on the ball in case of emergency.

The accident to Rube Oldring which prevented him from participating in the games with the Cubs proved that Connie's three-month-old hunch was a good one and Strunk is holding down the center garden job.

Mr. Mack has just one more hunch and that is that Strunk will pull off something or other that will surprise the Cubs before the series is concluded. The kid is in good shape and as he is a grand fielder and fast on his feet he may slip one over on the Chancelites.

In three tight battles in the Second Brunswick league the Meyer Brothers and El Venzos hit some high places and the latter won two of the three games. Both clubs rolled good averages for the series.

Koenig tabbed the only 200 score for his team, although Rapp was crowding the mark pretty close in his second effort and was only a point to the bad in the individual averages.

Koons opened the ball with 206, but fell down in his second and third games and lost the average to Rabus. The scores:

THOMAS MADE GREAT THROW

Philadelphia, Oct. 21.—Baseball history will record that Ira Thomas made the play that won the 1910 world's series for the Athletics if the Athletics win.

The great play occurred in the first inning of Monday's game. It was his throw that beat Frank Schulte to second. He threw the ball to Collins over Artie Hofman's head, after Hofman had backed into him and put his bat hard against Thomas' leg. Hofman did this when he saw he could not hit the ball. He pretended to back away from the ball, a good play as long as Connolly did not see him do it.

The Cubs had boasted that they would run the bases as they pleased. This was their first attempt. Once started, it would have been easy for them to have kept it up, but nipped in the bud, the advantage is the other way.

Thomas' throw steadied Baker and Barry, who were wavering and nervous before the game. They saw that one of the speediest Cubs could not steal, even though Thomas had to throw under a disadvantage. The Cubs were not so terrible as they had supposed.

Baseball experts at the post mortem after the game, including fifty players and as many writers, agreed that this was the crucial play of the first game and probably the series.

COULD NOT COME BACK.

New York, Oct. 21.—Young Corbett, once the first of lightweights, proved again last night when he met Willie Berger at the Longacre Athletic club that he was another of the champions who cannot come back. The bout was stopped by the referee in the middle of the fourth round after Corbett had been knocked down twice and was reeling blindly around the ring, a target for uppercuts and hooks to the face.

Maurice Niezer, who is a member of the executive committee of the National Hay association, will go to Auburn, N. Y., next week, to attend a meeting of the board.

Tonkel rolled the most consistent game and got the average. Harry Dreibelbiss landed 214 in his second game and got the high marks for the winners. The scores:

EDDIE WHEELER HAS A BIG TASK IN NEW JOB

Move Looks Like Good Stroke of Business for Annis.

Bert Annis probably made the best stroke of business in his baseball career when he signed Eddie Wheeler to manage the Grand Rapids club of next year.

This lies not alone in the fact that he has a manager who will make baseball popular in Grand Rapids, but indicates that Annis is somewhat of a diplomat when it is known that the relations between him and his new man were strained all last season.

They could not agree on the policy of conducting the team, but Wheeler had taken a half interest in South Bend and the management of the team with the distinct understanding that he was to be entirely unhampered and that he could select his own men, make his own terms with them and dispose of them as he saw fit.

Wheeler never halted a minute, never gave an inch of ground in the matter of management and at the end of the season he released himself from South Bend and announced that he was through with Annis. He had been at swords points with his partner all season, but had shown him that he was the man for the job, that his theories were right and once having demonstrated this by winning a pennant in a spectacular fight he was ready to quit and go some place else.

In common with many of the minor league managers and players he wanted to take the Fort Wayne team. He thought he was a free agent and he made an indirect application for the place believing that he could give the city as good ball as Jimmy Burke gave it last season. He wavered a long time and then came out with the announcement that he had signed with Annis for another season and had consented to take the Grand Rapids club.

This probably means that there has been an understanding in which each has seen that he can benefit the other by a pooling of their interests and out of it has grown a settlement which promises good things for Grand Rapids.

A month ago Wheeler stated openly that he would not manage the Stags under any circumstances, adding that he had rather undertake the management of a club in any town other than his home city. He also said he had some other deals on hand, but was positive that unless he landed the Fort Wayne berth he would not play in the Central league.

Since that time his father has died, leaving a widowed mother. Wheeler has taken unto himself a wife and these changed conditions probably influenced him in taking the berth when Annis offered it to him. Annis said last summer that he considered Grand Rapids the best city in the league and that he had determined to make a success of baseball there.

He has built up a good park, is willing to spend any reasonable sum of money to get hold of a first division team and with Eddie Wheeler at the helm he ought to make part of the money back that he has lost. One good season in Grand Rapids will net from $10,000 to $15,000 and the owner is framing up for just such a season.

Not only will Grand Rapids be benefited but the whole league ought to reap part of the harvest. Instead of playing to Sunday crowds at Reed's lake that bet the visiting teams a little more than the league guarantee every club that visits Grand Rapids ought to come away with a nice sum of money if the club is up in the race and making a fight for the pennant. Wheeler ought to keep it up there and taken from every angle the move looks good.

MAKES RECORD IN PROMOTION.

George Wesley Newport, a seaman on the U. S. S. Vermont, who enlisted in the navy at the local recruiting station last April, has returned to his ship after spending a ten days' furlough in the city. Newport is only 21 years old and according to Chief Quartermaster Singleton, of the local recruiting station, has made a record in promotion that is seldom made by a recruit in such a short period. Newport enlisted as an apprentice seaman and was sent to the Norfolk naval training station, at Norfolk, Va. He has attained the rank of able seaman, which is seldom reached by an apprentice seaman until over a year's service, and he is now in line for promotion to a petty officer.

The telephone industry three years ago furnished employment for more than five times as many persons as telegraphy.

Tidbits of Sporting News

Anyhow, Eddie Wheeler has been eliminated from the popular vote scheme of selecting a manager for the Terre Haute team.

Owner A. A. Grant of the Evansville Baseball club has just returned to South Bend from Evansville. Grant has no definite plans arranged for the 1911 season. Some time ago it was reported that he was a likely candidate for the vacancy left at Fort Wayne. The Eva leader stated, however, that he had never received any inkling of the fact that he might be wanted in the home of the Hillmens, and in fact, had never given the matter a thought.

In speaking of wonderful pitching work this season don't forget "Deacon" Phillippe, of the Pirates. For a man who was believed to be "all in" several years ago his 1910 record of fourteen victories and only three defeats—without counting the games he finished successfully for other pitchers—is wonderful.

The Cincinnati club has arranged to send McMillan to Jersey City in the deal for Jimmy Esmond, but Brooklyn will refuse to waive claim, as it wants McMillan for the purpose of turning him over to Rochester. President Herrmann says he will advocate the adoption of a new rule by the national commission to prevent that kind of "holdup" of a major club by another major club for the benefit of some minor club.

Bugs Raymond, the suspended New York pitcher, is playing with outlaw clubs in Chicago for a mere pittance.

The leading base stealer in the National league is Bescher, and the leading run-getter is Magee, of the Phillies.

First Baseman Jack Flynn, of the Pirates, is still visiting in Pittsburg, after having been excused for the season.

Catcher Charlie Dooin has done very well as manager of the Phillies this year and will now have a chance to build up the team, as he has signed to manage the Quakers next season.

The veteran Dan Brouthers, once a batting king, now has charge of the press stand at the Polo grounds in New York. He led the National league batsmen in 1882-83-89 and 1892; was second in 1885-87, and third in 1886.

Is He Playing the Game?

JOHNNY KLING.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 21.—The Press prints the following staff special from Philadelphia:

"The Cubs are through. The great baseball machine is broken by personal strife and personal ambition.

"This was shown Tuesday evening at the Adline hotel when Manager Chance of the Cubs met his catcher, Johnny Kling. Chance accused Kling of sacrificing the game because of spleen in order to protect or better his own personal record behind the bat.

"'I told you not to waste balls for Baker for fear Collins would get another stolen base on you. You do that again and you'll sit on the bench.'"

Kling's reply was not printed.

"Chance referred to the fifth inning. Collins had stolen in the first inning and was on first in the fifth. Kling signaled for waste balls, but Collins stole anyway, and a moment later Baker walked. Kling was seen after his angry interview with Chance.

"'We're outclassed, and I could tell you a lot more, but dare not,' he said. Kling was sore, but not sore enough to say this unless there was reason for it."

GREAT STRIKE HAS BEEN CALLED ON GOULD LINES

Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain Mechanics Walk Out.

St. Louis, Oct. 21.—Approximately 2,500 men employed in the mechanical trades on the Missouri Pacific, Iron Mountain system walked out in sympathy with the striking machinists at 10 o'clock this morning. The exact number of men who quit work will not be known at the road's headquarters until late today.

The order to quit work was telegraphed last night to the boilermakers, blacksmiths and pipe men by the heads of their international unions after the machinists had failed to settle their trouble with General Manager Sullivan, of the Missouri Pacific. Less than 100 men are employed in the mechanical departments here and they walked out. The principal shops of the roads are located at Sedalia, Mo., and Little Rock, Ark.

The union men said the roads will not be able to operate their locomotives more than a week without the men who quit work today. They say they are necessary to keep the engines in running order and that within a week the effects of the strike will be felt by the roads.

If the trouble is not settled within a reasonable time the heads of the unions have threatened to cause a walk out on all of the Gould lines. These include the Denver & Rio Grande, Rio Grande, Western Pacific, Cotton Belt.

The machinists' trouble was caused by a demand for a change in the working conditions.

ALDRICH LITTLE HURT.

Aged Senator About After Being Hit By Street Car.

New York, Oct. 21.—United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, has quite recovered from the slight bruises received last night when he was knocked down by a Madison avenue car at 69th street. Early reports had it that Senator Aldrich was in an automobile accident and had been severely hurt. Senator Aldrich was crossing the street when the car struck him a glancing blow, knocking him down. The senator unassisted rose to his feet and disregarding a few slight bruises, walked to the home of his son, Winthrop Aldrich, on Park avenue.

Senator Aldrich was as well as ever this morning.

GOVERNMENT ASKED TO SEARCH FOR AERONAUTS

Canada Appealed to for Help to Find Missiing Balloonists.

St. Louis, Oct. 21.—Alarmed at the prolonged silence of three balloon pilots and their aids, who left here Monday in the International race, the Aero club of St. Louis today asked the Canadian government to begin a hunt for them. It is believed that the balloons landed and their occupants are in distress in the forests of Canada. The appeals for assistance were addressed to Lieut. Gov. J. M. Gibson, at Toronto, and Lieut. Gov. C. Alphonse Pelletier at Quebec. The Hudson Bay company, with headquarters at Toronto, was asked to begin a search for the aeronauts. The three balloons as yet unreported are the America II, Aurea, a Swiss entry, and Dusseldorf II, a German entry.

The Germania landed yesterday fifty miles from Haileybury, Ont., according to today's messages. Col. Theodore Schaeck, in the Helvetia, landed Wednesday evening at the same place the Germania is reported to have come to earth.

The Germania, according to a telegram from Haileybury, Ont., was seen there yesterday, going northeast into the forest of northern Quebec. The Germania is covered with aluminum dust and it is easily identified.

The America II, the only American entry unreported, it is thought by aeronauts, could not remain in the air eighty-seven hours, the time from when it left here Monday until 9 o'clock this morning. So far the balloon which was reported to have passed over Kiskissing, Ont., is believed to have gone the greatest distance, about 1,100 miles. This balloon has broken all world's records made in competition.

WILL SAVE SHIVELY'S SORE TOE

But the Senator Will Have to Keep Quiet for a While.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 21.—Senator B. F. Shively, who came home from Bloomington last night because of a sore foot, will not have to submit to the amputation of a toe, although he may be confined to his home for some time. This statement was made by the senator's physician after he had made an examination. The surgeon ordered the patient to give up campaigning and remain quiet for several days.

FOILED AGAIN; NO TRIP.

Washington, Oct. 21.—It will not be necessary for President Taft to go to Cincinnati to register in order to vote there on November 8. The president last night registered by affidavit. His name has been put on the list of eligible voters and he will leave Washington on November 7 to cast his ballot at Cincinnati the following morning.

Miss Mary Walker, of Hoagland avenue, has gone to Louisville, Ky., to visit her brother, Frank J. Walker.

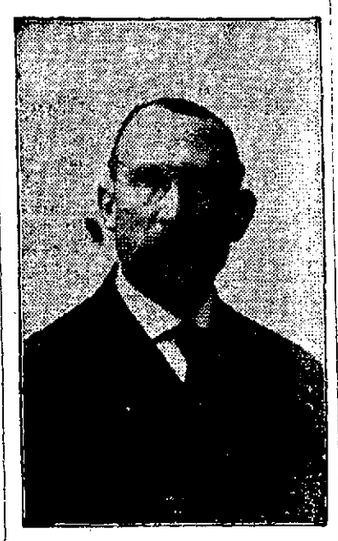
THE RURODE DRY GOODS COMPANY

They Know Him as Deep Water Thompson

Noted Waterways Expert to Speak at Commercial Club This Evening.

Fort Wayne will have another opportunity to hear one of the most famous waterways experts in the country, this evening, when S. A. Thompson, field secretary of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, will discuss the subject of waterways at the Commercial club rooms. More than a year ago Mr. Thompson visited Fort Wayne and gave some valuable assistance in the preparation for the campaign in behalf of the proposed Toledo, Fort Wayne and Chicago barge canal.



S. A. THOMPSON,
Waterway Expert at Commercial Club This Evening.

Mr. Thompson is still actively engaged in the work for a great national system of inland waterways. He is a most entertaining speaker and is possessed of a fund of information on the subject. It is hoped that a large audience will be present to hear him this evening. The study of waterways Mr. Thompson began some twenty-five years ago while in the newspaper business in Duluth, Minnesota. Later he was elected secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of that city, and while in that position appeared so often before the committee on rivers and harbors to urge improvements on the great lakes that the newspaper correspondents at Washington nicknamed him "Deep Water Thompson, of Duluth."

LIKE AN EARLY T. R.

Tremendous Energy and Wide Achievement of Pliny the Elder.

(Holmes' "Natural History Lore.")

Caius Plinius Secundus, ordinarily called the elder to distinguish him from his nephew, who was also an eminent man of letters, was born at Verona or Como, A. D. 23. As the son of a Roman of noble family, he was early devoted to a military career and spent a considerable portion of his life in the army, where he gained distinction in various campaigns, and on his retirement from actual service was appointed by the emperor procurator of Spain.

Though much occupied in public work he was an enthusiastic student and devoted all his intervals of relaxation to literature. During dinner he was either being read to or was busily engaged in taking notes, and when traveling his secretary was in constant attendance upon him. Even when enjoying his bath he was busy dictating or imbibing knowledge. He was a tremendous worker and besides the "Natural History," wrote a voluminous treatise on the German campaign and various other books.

He fell a victim to his love of science, as while commanding the fleet he was witness of the great eruption of Vesuvius that destroyed Pompeii and Herculaneum, and while making observations ashore he was overwhelmed in the thick sulphurous vapor.

SPECIAL MEETING OF Y. M. C. A.

President Mossman Fixes Date of the Election of Officers.

SOME SHOPMEN ARE INJURED

Lawrence Vetter Gets Arm in Machinery and is Badly Cut.

B. Paul Mossman, president of the Central board of the Y. M. C. A., has called a meeting of the board for tomorrow night, to be held at the Railroad Y. M. C. A. rooms. The purpose of the meeting is to elect new officers of the Central board and a board of trustees and to transact such other business as may come up for consideration. These elections should have taken place some time ago, but were postponed because of lack of quorum at the regular annual meeting.

LEAVE SUNDAY FOR K. C.

Nickel Plate Passenger Men Going to Convention.

A jolly party of hustlers for passenger business, about fifteen in number, will pass through Fort Wayne Sunday en route to Kansas City, where a three days' convention of Nickel Plate passenger agents will be held. There will be fifteen in the party from the east, including J. C. Mullenbruck, of Erie, and C. A. Melin, of Denver, Col., who has been visiting his relatives in the east and Traveling Passenger Agent F. P. Parnin, accompanied by Mrs. Parnin, will join them here. At Chicago they will be joined by other Nickel Plate passenger men, including C. A. Asterlin, also a former Fort Wayne man, but now at Minneapolis, and will go to Kansas City in a body. This is the annual meeting called by General Passenger Agent B. F. Horner. Last year the agents met in Niagara Falls. After the Kansas City convention Mr. and Mrs. Parnin will go to California to spend about three weeks.

PLENTY OF MEN NOW.

Laborers Looking for Jobs in Doors for the Winter.

General Foreman Chris Kees, of the Pennsylvania freight house, said this morning that it was not a difficult matter to get freight handlers now, but two or three months ago it was impossible to get a sufficient number to handle the work. He accounts for the change on the theory that as the winter months draw nigh the men begin to look around for employment where they will be sheltered from the weather. Mr. Kees added fifteen men to his force this week and may take on another lot next week.

BRAKEMAN INJURED.

C. J. Marker, a brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad, was sent to St. Joseph's hospital this morning, suffering from severe injuries on the hip and lower part of the body, received while starting out on his run from Chicago to Fort Wayne Thursday night. Marker was walking along the top of the moving freight train and failing to notice that he was approaching a flat car stepped off into space, falling a distance of ten feet, striking the edge of the car and falling inside. He was attended by the company's surgeon upon arrival here, and afterwards sent to the hospital. While he was badly injured his condition is not serious.

GOES TO KNITTING MILLS.

Sherman Swinehart, for three years a checker at the receiving department of the Electric works, resigned yesterday and took employment in the stock department of the Wayne Knitting mills. The vacancy thus caused has been filled by the promotion of D. P. Rowan, a clerk in the department. Another change made by Foreman George Anderson was the employment of Herman Hilker in the stock room. Mr. Hilker was employed there once before, resigning a few months ago to take a position at the Fruit House.

ARM CUT IN MACHINERY.

Lawrence Vetter, employed in the meter winding department of the Fort Wayne Electric works, came near losing an arm this morning. He was working about a machine when one of his sleeves was caught by the cog gearing and the arm was pulled into the machinery. Fortunately it was stopped in time to prevent serious injury, but the flesh was painfully cut and the wound will disable Mr. Vetter for several days.

NOW A PROSPEROUS FARMER.

P. E. Mills, a prosperous farmer residing near Roanoke, Ind., was in the city today doing a little trading and calling on some of his old friends and former shop associates. For twenty-one years Mr. Mills was employed as a passenger car builder at the Pennsylvania shops, resigning five years ago to take up farm work. While in the employ of the Pennsylvania he served one term as advisory committeeman for the Relief department.

SPECIALS POSTPONED.

The two special trains ordered for the Athletic and the Cub ball teams for tonight will not run until tomorrow night. There was no game in Chicago this afternoon on account of the rain and it will be played tomorrow afternoon, providing the weather is favorable. If Chicago wins there will be two special trains and if the Athletics win, only one train will be necessary, for that game will decide the contest.

HAD A TOE CRUSHED.

C. P. Pelkey, 21 years old, 1234 Scott avenue, who is employed as a brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad, had the big toe of his left foot badly crushed while unloading a burial vault from a truck. The vault slipped and fell on his foot.

SIDE BRUISED BY FALL.

G. F. Flagg, 1320 Winter street, a fireman on the Pennsylvania railroad, fell from the tender attached to his engine this morning, badly bruising his right side. He was attended by the company's surgeon.

MACHINIST VERY SICK.

Machinist William F. O'Conner, of the Pennsylvania, was taken suddenly and violently ill yesterday afternoon and is quite sick today. He has a genuine attack of la grippe. Sickness is a new experience to Mr. O'Conner.

EAST ON BUSINESS.

Tonight Assistant Master Mechanic E. E. Greist, of the Pennsylvania, will go to Pittsburg on business for the company. Boiler Foreman B. F. Sarver is now in Mahoningtown on business for the company.

TO CHICAGO ON BUSINESS.

Division Storekeeper C. F. Cherry went to Chicago at noon today on business for the Pennsylvania company which will keep him there until tomorrow.

DAMAGED ENGINE REPAIRED.

Wabash engine 525, which figured in the boiler explosion accident at Toledo several weeks ago, left the shops in this city today, having been repaired.

DR. C. B. STEMEN RETURNS.

Dr. C. B. Stemen, surgeon for the Pennsylvania railroad, who has been attending the convention of the American Association of Railway Surgeons in Chicago, returned home last night.

LEFT HAND BADLY CUT.

Guy Hudgins, a boilermaker at the Wabash shops, had his left hand severely wounded yesterday when he accidentally struck it against the sharp end of a boiler flue while at work. A circular wound was inflicted on the back of the member, which will disable Mr. Hudgins a few days at least.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

J. J. Flynn left yesterday for Eaton Rapids to take up the duties of Lake Shore agent at that place.

Yesterday the Bass company shipped a carload of steel tanks to Newark, N. J.

C. Malland, G. S. Emrick, A. J. Huber and A. Peterson, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and off duty.

Fireman E. H. Bell, of the Pennsylvania power house, is off duty on account of sickness.

E. R. Hardendorf, a messenger at the Pennsylvania shops, is off duty as a result of an accident a few days ago.

A. J. Bobay, a flue welder, took a position at the Pennsylvania shops this morning.

Engineer J. H. Johnson, of the Pennsylvania power plant, has gone to Michigan to spend the remaining days of October in fishing.

Harry Stoy has been transferred from the lamp room at the Fort Wayne Electric works to the testing department.

Machinists J. E. Young and Dennis E. Cleary, who had been off duty on account of sickness, resumed work this morning at the Pennsylvania shops.

Herman Limbach, who sprained an ankle while playing ball with the shop team Sunday, has recovered and resumed work at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop.

F. Knapp, 2344 Gay street, a car builder at the Pennsylvania shops, had the second and third fingers of his right hand crushed while jacking up a car this morning. The cogs under the car slipped, catching his fingers.

Boilermaker J. H. Emory resigned a position at the Wabash shops this morning. He has been offered employment in Chicago and will go there tomorrow.

Pipefitter W. H. Mansfield went to Lima, Ohio, this morning to put in some conduits for Pennsylvania linemen, who are doing some work in that city.

Tomorrow R. L. Little, assistant engineer at the Pennsylvania power plant, will join his wife in Chicago, where she has been visiting several days, and accompany her home next week.

M. Reese, 1405 Hanna street, who is employed at the Pennsylvania freight house, had his right foot mashed this morning by a loading bridge falling on it.

The G. R. & I. engineers will cease blowing whistles while in Grand Rapids and will depend entirely upon buzzers, lanterns and telephones for signals hereafter. The city council has demanded the enforcement of an ordinance to that effect and the railway men have been instructed accordingly.

The Lake Shore and the Michigan Central lines, which are owned and operated by one interest, will soon be operated under unique arrangements. The lines parallel each other between Toledo and Detroit and the Lake Shore under the proposed agreement will carry all the passengers, while all of the freight will go over the Michigan Central. There are twenty passenger trains daily over these lines.

Frank F. Roper, freight cashier of the Grand Trunk Railway system, with headquarters in Toronto, who with Mrs. Roper, was here to attend the graduation of their daughter, Miss Winifred Roper, as a trained nurse, will leave for his home Monday. While in the city Mr. and Mrs. Roper were guests of their daughters, Misses Ethel and Winifred, and Dr. and Mrs. R. Parks White and Mrs. H. E. Patterson, of 905 Columbia avenue.

MATOTT THE TOASTMASTER.

Conductor Charles T. Matott will preside as toastmaster at the banquet of the Pennsylvania Veteran Employes' association at Elks' home tomorrow evening. With the exception of Dr. C. B. Stemen, who will be the chief speaker of the evening, Mr. Matott has not served notice upon those vets who will be called upon for a speech, but it is understood there will be a number of them. Secretary J. N. Rohyans says he has received about seventy-five responses to the requests mailed to members to let him know whether they can attend the banquet or not. All say they will be there. It is believed that a number of others will also be on hand and Mr. Rohyans is figuring upon an attendance of upwards of 100.

To All Our Friends and Our Friends' Friends

Greeting:

THE NEW GERMAN-AMERICAN TRUST COMPANY WILL OPEN FOR BUSINESS IN THE ROOMS OF THE GERMAN-AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK, ON COURT STREET, BRIGHT AND EARLY TOMORROW, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1910.

Yourself, your family and your friends are cordially invited to visit the bank sometime during the day and aid in making our opening an interesting and memorable event.

The opening of a new financial institution is always attended with a great deal of interest, and we trust that the first day of our new institution will be no exception to the general rule.

There will be no flowers, no souvenirs, no band, no orchestra. There will be merely an opportunity to inspect the handsomest, most convenient banking room in the state. Come in and see it.

Would you like a souvenir of this occasion? None better, none more lasting can be had than to get your name upon the books of the new trust company on the first day it opens for business. Many people are proud that they opened an account in the German-American National Bank the day the bank opened. They have watched its growth with a keen personal interest.

We should like to have as many of our friends as is possible able to say in days to come: "I opened a savings account in the German-American Trust Company the very day it opened." One dollar will open such an account in your own name, your wife's name, your son's name, your daughter's name or the baby's name.

LET THE BABIES GROW UP TOGETHER.

IMPORTERS IN PANIC AND ANXIOUS TO PAY UP

Duveen Prosecution Throws a Scare Into Them and They Plead.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Alarmed by the activity of William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port of New York, in his efforts to stop undervaluation frauds, of which the indictment of the Duveen Brothers is a striking example, several large importing houses have come forward and offered to compromise with the government in case they are allowed to escape prosecution. This sensational turn in the customs house cases was announced here today by Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury, at the end of a conference with Mr. Loeb that lasted nearly all day.

The names of the importers who have approached Mr. Loeb with these offers are of course being closely guarded. It is understood that they have places of business in New York, although this was not officially stated at the treasury department.

Large Sums are Involved.

Mr. MacVeagh did not say what sums of money were involved. It was learned, however, that the sums are very large which these importers are willing to pay to prevent public prosecution and keep from being roughly arrested and hauled into court, as were the Duveens.

It has not yet been decided whether the government will accept the offers or whether it will proceed against the importers in question. The details of the cases were explained carefully to the secretary today by Mr. Loeb. It was at length agreed that the whole matter would be laid before the department of justice.

Case Up to Wickersham.

If, after a careful investigation, George W. Wickersham, the attorney general, believes that the interests of the government can best be served by accepting the offers of money, that course will be followed. If Mr. Wickersham takes the other view, steps will be taken to bring the offenders into court.

The Duveen case as well as the others of a similar nature now under consideration are practically admitted at the treasury department to be the direct result of the rigid investigation last summer of the appraisers stores in New York, made by direction of Secretary MacVeagh. The report of the special agents who did this work has been in the secretary's hands for nearly two months, and has been laid before President Taft. It is a highly important document, which has been most carefully guarded. It contains information that is likely to create more sensations before the year is out.

The Duveen case was merely mentioned incidentally by Mr. Loeb. The secretary was interested to learn what sort of a case Mr. Loeb though he could make against the indicted art importers. The collector told him he believed he had more than enough evidence. Mr. MacVeagh assured Mr. Loeb of his support and urged him to continue his campaign of reform in the customs house.

NEW PLAN OF REDUCTION.

Board Hears Proposition to Make Alcohol of Garbage.

Members of the board of public works are entertaining as a solution of the troublesome garbage collection and reduction question a scheme proposed last night to turn the city's refuse to profit by converting it into denatured alcohol. A plant to convert the garbage into alcohol can be bought for $950 and there is a ready market for the product so the board will give the proposition to buy an outfit serious consideration.

The board agreed to furnish current for two lamps to be supplied the boy scouts by J. J. Wood and to be used in a field the use of which has been donated by Louis Fox.

Residents of Thomas street have asked the board to have the street repaired in places before the ten-year guarantee expires.

Assessment rolls for paving the alley between Washington and Jefferson and between Washington and Wayne and for constructing cement walks on Wildwood avenue were confirmed.

The board approved a plat of a portion of Swinney park place vacating the first alley west of Gardon street and the alley along the property belonging to Beyer Bros., north of the Pennsylvania track.

CABINET CHANGES IN PROSPECT IS THE GOSSIP

Ballinger to Get Out and Nagel to Go to the Supreme Bench.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—The Tribune today prints the following special from Washington:

It is becoming apparent that President Taft will not be able to get through his administration without numerous changes in his cabinet.

In spite of the grim effort the president is making to retain the secretary of the interior, there is no doubt in the minds of politicians here that the days of Secretary Ballinger are numbered. It is the general understanding that if Secretary of War Jacob M. Dickinson can be elected to the United States senate from the state of Tennessee he will resign the portofolio he holds. Frank Hitchcock, the postmaster general, has been suggested as one of the senators of the new state of Arizona.

There is gossip in Washington that James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, may be urged for the seat in the senate made vacant by the death of Jonathan P. Dolliver, of Iowa. The president has under consideration the appointment of the secretary of commerce and labor, Charles Nagel, as an associate justice of the United States.

Fire Underneath the Smoke.

Some of the gossip in reference to cabinet changes probably is not justified by the facts. But there is a certain amount of fire underneath the smoke which indicates that Mr. Taft will not be able to get through the rest of his administration without new appointments in his official family.

Mr. Ballinger certainly will not go until after the majority of the committee which investigated the charges of Gifford Pinchot has submitted its report vindicating his administration of the interior department. The committee probably will not get together until shortly before congress convenes.

Thus Mr. Ballinger will remain in office until after the election and possibly for a time during the winter. He himself has no intention of resigning, but he is not the man to hold on once he is convinced he is embarrassing the president. It need surprise no one, therefore, should he retire shortly after the report of the majority of the investigating committee is given to the public.

In the meantime the secretary is preparing his annual report, which will constitute a defense of the policy he has inaugurated and will seek to influence the character of the legislation regarded by him as essential for the conservation of the natural resources of the country.

Dickinson Has Senate Change.

The political situation in Tennessee is such that Mr. Dickinson stands a good chance of being transferred to the senate. Senator Frazier, whose term will expire next March is a strong, forceful lawyer, but he is not an avowed candidate for re-election. The primary nomination was won by Benton McMillin, a former governor of Tennessee.

McMillin belongs to the faction of the democracy headed by Governor Patterson, who may himself be a candidate for the senate. Many of the anti-Patterson democrats would prefer to vote for a republican rather than for Patterson or McMillin.

It would seem that Senator Frazier ought to be returned, since he is capable of gaining prestige for his state in the national capital. Should he place himself finally out of the race, Mr. Dickinson appears to be the only one upon whom the factions can combine.

The secretary is now on his way to Washington from his tour around the world. Upon his arrival he will be informed of the political situation in the state, and will discuss his future with the president.

Arizona Gives Hitchcock a Show.

There has been more or less talk that the enabling act under which Arizona will be admitted to the union was so framed as to provide Postmaster General Hitchcock with an opportunity to appeal to the people of the new state for election as one of their representatives in the United States senate.

Hitchcock does not hail from Arizona, but he has acquired large properties there, including a newspaper, and easily could declare himself a citizen of the state and receive legal status as such. The people of Arizona are grateful to him for assisting them to acquire separate statehood.

The talk that Secretary Wilson would retire from the cabinet has largely disappeared. Some of his friends believe Iowa ought to recognize his services to the state and the nation by sending him to Washington as successor to the late Senator Dolliver. No one here believes there is a chance of anything of the kind.

Mr. Wilson has no such idea in his head. It is his desire to remain in the cabinet and he may do so for a time, although it is currently stated that the president has in mind an Ohio college man as his successor.

Wilson to Campaign in Iowa.

The secretary will leave Washington in a few days to speak in behalf of the re-election of Walter I. Smith, of Council Bluffs, and what he says undoubtedly will be accepted as a message from President Taft. While he is in Iowa it may be the question of the senatorship will be discussed.

There is no line on whom the president has in mind for any of the cabinet places in case of the resignation of the present incumbents. Undoubtedly Mr. Taft will seek to strengthen his administration politically if the opportunity shall present itself, and this is of especial importance now that the campaign will be inaugurated within a few months for the renomination for the presidency in 1912.

WILL CONTINUE FIGHT ON GREED

Senator Beveridge, "and I want to say here and now that twelve years ago Judge Taylor deserved to be elected to the senate instead of me. He had the mind, the heart, the ability, the scope and every other necessary qualification for the place, and he looked the part. But I was in the race, and like the foolish youth I couldn't quit until the touch-down was made." Senator Beveridge continued with a magnificent tribute to Judge Taylor, declaring that no man had been closer to him, none had given more wise counsel or more steadfast courage to him as senator than "the first citizen of Northern Indiana, your beloved townsman, Judge Robert S. Taylor."

Senator Beveridge disclaimed the accomplishment or oratory ascribed to him by Judge Heaton, declaring himself to be merely "a plain, blunt man that speaks his mind," and said that if inthe old college days he had possessed any gifts or oratory, he had lost it all; that in the maelstrom of the past twelve years he had had so many fights that he couldn't keep up the practice.

Reference to Dolliver.

"But we had an orator—a great orator—until last Saturday," continued Senator Beveridge, and the audience at once recognized the reference to Senator Dolliver, of Iowa. "He was nearly my best friend—the greatest contemporary orator in the English-speaking world. I can hardly speak tonight for thought of him. He went to his grave today for you as surely as did any soldier who gave his life at Appomattox."

"Slavery; Liberty," was the text announced by Senator Beveridge for his address, and he declared that slavery does not mean mere shackles for the feet; it may mean intellectual bondage. "I want to make all men and all women free of partisanship, free of bossism, free of everything that beclouds the mind."

"This is not a political meeting," continued to speaker; "it is a gathering of citizens, not to exalt our party or condemn the other, but to ascertain what is best for us and what will honor the flag. We all know that a mighty movement is sweeping over the souls of the American people. Not since the days of 1858 have they been so moved as they are today. This isn't a partisan speech; I haven't made a speech of that kind in te nyears. I'm preaching liberty and discipline.

Eternal Wrong of Greed.

"Last year I found out that the tobacco trust had been robbing the people of some $17,000,000 each year since 1902. We stopped that robbery after a hot fight. They mutilated that amendment a good deal, and I'm sorry to say that when it came to voting on that amendment every democratic senator fought it. Most of our fellows didn't want to vote for it, but they had to do so; they could not oppose it and then face their constituents. My experience has shown me that good men fight for laws that help people, and bad men of all parties fight against them. I've gotten beyond partisanship.

"Investigation of the beef trust showed that good meats were being sold to foreign customers, and that it was selling its rotten and diseased meats in canned form to American customers. We had another awful fight to remedy this. Who opposed us? The bad men of both parties. But we won out because we had Theodore Roosevelt to fight with us. We whipped them, but we were pretty well battered up ourselves. If there were any brickbats or tin cans that didn't come our way, I didn't notice them.

Denies Party Troubles.

"The powers of pillage are not content with robbery, but they come to Washington and try to write our laws. I decline to take orders from any party boss. They declared I was at war with my party. I deny it. I did have a little difficulty with four or five men from the New England states who tried to tell me what the republican party in Indiana stood for. I tell you the fireside and not the party boss is the place of final appeal."

Senator Beveridge devoted some time to a discussion of the tariff, contending for the principle of protection, but said: "Just as I am against free trade on one hand, so am I against extortion in the name of protection on the other. Last year when the advance on clothing was proposed, I fought it because it is wrong and excessive, and I will continue to fight it as long as you keep me in public life. The same is true of steel and sugar and other centralized industries, and this fight is going on to a finish. He declared that when three or four years ago he presented his bill for a tariff commission, nobody favored it, and that now pretty nearly everybody had come to see the light.

The cost of living, Senator Beveridge said, had been increased by many causes which legislation could not remedy, but in some instances it could do effective work in cheapening the cost of existence. "It can remedy railroad charges and trust charges based on over-capitalization."

Continuing he urged the excellence of the effort for the employers' liability act, the railroad safety appliance act, th eight-hour day and the child labor legislation, and referring to the election of senators by direct vote declared that the day is coming when the voter will be able to express his preference by direct vote on senatorships.

Referring to the waterways matter, Senator Beveridge took a rap at Congressman Cline when he said that he had been able to get the measure through the senate, but that he couldn't do the work in the house also. "Send to Washington a man who can help me—send Heaton," he dramatically exclaimed. "Voters were also urged to support the republican legislative nominees in Allen county.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Beveridge shook hands with the audience which passed in line before him, and they hurried away for his court house speech. Following the court house meeting there was an informal reception at the Anthony hotel, where Senator Beveridge spent the night.

THE MARKETS

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 21.—Fairly large shipments from Argentine, from India and Australia encouraged bearishness in the wheat market today. Furthermore the crop advices from the southern hemisphere were reassuring in tone, and cash demand here was only moderate. Sellers were evidently holding off. The opening was ¾c lower to a shade higher. December started at 94¼c to 94⅜c, touched 94⅝c and then dropped to 94⅛@94¼c.

Purchases by shorts and commission houses were insufficient volume to keep corn nearly steady. December opened unchanged to ⅛c off at 47⅜c to 47½c, holding quite firmly at the first named price.

Oats were in good demand from shorts. December started a shade to ⅛c to ¼c up at 31⅛c to 31⅜c, but reacted to 31¼c.

Provisions eased off with hogs. First sales were unchanged to 5c down with the January option at $17.40 for pork, $10.87½ for lard and $9.47½ for ribs.

New York, Oct. 21.—Prices of stocks advanced today on active opening dealings, a decline of ⅝ in Amalgamated Copper being the most conspicuous exception. International Harvester also declined 1¼. Rock Island and Bethlehem Steel rose 1½, the preferred 1¾ and Rock Island, Baltimore & Ohio and American Car large fractions.

A buoyant outburst in Reading, which was not checked until it had risen above 156, imparted a very strong tone to the market. United States Steel touched 70⅝. The advance was so rapid that stocks were fed out to realize, and there was a moderate reaction. Subsequently the rise was continued, but there was considerably less business. Kansas City Southern and Westinghouse Electric rose 1½. Delaware & Hudson and Southern Pacific 1¼ and Union Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande, American Smelting and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 1. Virginia Iron yielded 4 points and Norfolk & Western 1 point.

The stock market indicated the continued control of the bull party in the speculation. A fresh demonstration by the bulls carried Reading to 156⅜, Union Pacific to 171 and United States Steel to 70½, new prices for the present movement. Realizing sales again carried prices back a fraction to a point. St. Paul and General Electric gained 1 and American Smelting 1¾. Pullman declined 1. Prices were receding at noon. Bonds were firm.

The market became heavy in tone with special pressure directed against the copper stocks. Tennessee Copper fell 1¾. St. Louis Southwestern preferred 2 and Canadian Pacific, Toledo, St. Louis & Western, Virginia-Carolina Chemical 1 point.

Continuous selling wiped out the major portion of the forenoon advance and a number f the representative stocks were offered down to yesterday's close or below, including Union Pacific, the Hill stocks, Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio, and United States Steel. By the time this level had been reached the market began to grow dull. Wheeling & Lake Erie first preferred advanced 2¾ and the second preferred 1¾. The Texas Company lost 1½ and American Cotton Oil 1 point.

The market closed weak and the downward drift of prices continued, the demand having lost all of its aggressiveness. The rise in Reading and American Smelting was wiped out. Losses were established in Northern Pacific, New York Central, Southern Railway preferred and Chicago Great Western preferred 1, Louisville & Nashville 1¼, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste Marie and Railway Steel Spring 1¾, American Agricultural Chemical and National Lead 1½, International Harvester 2, Tennessee Copper 2¼ and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 2¾.

ED GREEN DOES STUNT.

Blows Some of Mamma Hetty's Cash for 15,000 Post Cards.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 21.—Edward H. S. Green, railroad president and jovial son of the richest woman in the world, Hetty Green, relieved the tedium of the trip from New York city to Texas by stopping over in St. Louis yesterday and personally selecting 15,000 different kinds of picture post cards.

The millionaire is not going to open up a picture post card shop nor will the assortment be consigned to any orphan's home or children's hospital. The whole bunch is intended as a home coming surprise for the financier's personal friends and boon companions down in Texas—railroad superintendents, bank presidents, ranchmen, cattle owners, brother Elks and such.

Each and every one of the 15,000 post cards is different.

SHORT AND UGLY IS APPLIED TO THE COLONEL

Cornell Professor in His Speech Calls Roosevelt Liar.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Twice in speech last night Prof. E. H. Woodruff of Cornell university called Theodore Roosevelt a liar, once an "unmitigated liar." His attack, made at a political rally, over which he presided threw the house into an uproar. There were cat calls, hisses, cheers and clapping with a steady shout behind them all of "Parker, Parker."

Judge Parker sprang to his feet and begged the audience to allow Prof. Woodruff to be heard. The noisier part of the house complied and the rest of the evening went more quietly.

As soon as Prof. Woodruff found his feet he began to open the "Bellamy Storer episode" which Colonel Roosevelt only recently declared was closed. He charged that when the colonel denied sending Bellamy Storer to the vatican he was "an unmitigated liar;" and there were letters in his possession, said the professor, to bear him out. The uproar had barely subsided when the professor took up his cudgels again. Roosevelt was twice a liar, he said, when he denied that the late E. H. Harriman had subscribed to a corruption fund to be used for Roosevelt's election to the presidency. He closed with a quotation from the Italian historian, Ferrero, transferred from Clodius, to whom it was originally applied by the writer, to Roosevelt. The speaker was careful to specify that he meant to imply no comparison between the private life of Clodius and Roosevelt. The quotation follows:

"The youngest recruit in the ranks of the proletariat, who knew neither fear nor scruples, and combined the violence of the demagogue with the self-assurance of the aristocrat, he was prepared to assert his claim to dominate the community—not so much by his intellect, which was indeed in no way remarkable, but by the one quality in which he outshone all his rivals—by his uncontrollable audacity."

Judge Parker, who followed him, directed all his shafts at Candidate Stimson, of the opposition.

Informally, Judge Parker, who came from Owego yesterday by automobile, referred to the automobile review of deserted farms which Colonel Roosevelt will make next Monday with Representative John W. Dwight as follows:

"Inquiry at the Owego Daily Record office brought the reply that there are no abandoned farms in this county. This seemed to indorse the bulletins issued by the agricultural department at Washington. However, I pursued my inquiries and looked out for the appearance of abandoned farms all the way to Ithaca. Evidently there is nothing to the abandoned farm proposition but votes."

LEGENDS OF THE WERE-WOLVES

Circumstantial Stories of Men Who, By Destiny or at Will, Were Transformed.

(Rolfe's Natural History Lore and Legend.)

John of Nuremberg relates how a man, lost at night in a strange country, directed his steps towards a fire that he saw before him. On reaching it he found a wolf sitting enjoying its warmth and was informed by him that he was really as human as himself, but that he was compelled for a certain number of years, like all his countrymen, to assume the shape of a wolf.

A strange country, indeed, where wolves when the evenings grow chilly light a fire and in the comfort of its ruddy glow are found ready to entertain the passing traveler with their conversation!

Olaus Magnus, in the early part of the sixteenth century, tells us a story of a nobleman and his retinue who lost their way in journeying through a wild forest and presently found themselves hopelessly fondless and shelterless. In the urgency of their need one of the servants disclosed to him in confidence that he had the power of turning himself into a wolf, and doubted not but that, if his master would kindly excuse him awhile, he would be able to find the party some provision. Permission being given, the man disappeared into the forest under semblance of a wolf and very quickly returned with a lamb in his mouth, and then, having fulfilled his mission, resumed his human form.

In Auvergne in 1598 a nobleman, in returning from the chase, was stopped by a stranger who told him that he had been furiously attacked by a savage wolf, but had been fortunate enough to save himself by slashing off one of its forepaws. This he produced as a trophy, when, to the astonishment of both, it was found to have become the delicate hand of a lady. The nobleman felt so sure that he recognized a ring upon it that he hurried to the castle and there found his wife sitting with her arm tied up, and on removing the wrappers the hand was missing. She had to stand her trial as a loup-garou, and, being convicted, perished at the stake.

LITTLE GIRL LOSES LIFE ON RAILWAY AT ELWOOD

Foot Caught in a Cattle Guard and She Fails in Heroic Resort.

Elwood, Ind., Oct. 21.—After tugging vainly to release her foot from a cattle guard, when she saw a Lake Erie and Western passenger train bearing down upon her, Dolly Chriss, cuddled down beside the track, resigned, to let the train cut off one foot, but trying to save her life. The plan did not work. The little girl's dress was caught by the engine pilot and she received wounds from which she died an hour later on the operating table.

The child, accompanied by her older sister, Mary, went to the woods yesterday after school to gather bright colored maple leaves and was returning home along the railroad tracks with her arms loaded with the brilliant hued foliage. Seeing the approaching train, the girls hurried to cross the cattle guard, but Dolly's foot was caught. The older girl tried to help her, but to no avail, and barely left her sister in time to escape the fast train.

BUSINESS CHANGED OWNERS.

Page Printing Company Purchased by the Cope-Grant Co.

The Page Printing company business, of which W. D. Page, now of San Diego, Cal., was president and Thomas B. Wright secretary and treasurer, has been purchased by the Cope-Grant Printing company and the new owners entered upon its possession today with Burton W. Cope in charge as manager. E. M. Grant, the other member of the company, will continue to conduct the business of the company at the old office on Calhoun street, the two establishments being in proprietory charge of the Cope-Grant Printing company.

The sale was made Thursday afternoon and the new owners took charge of the business today. The sale affects only the printing business, which is a well equipped general job office. The building at the corner of Washington and Clinton streets, long occupied by the Daily News office, is leased from Mr. Page.

For some years Mr. Wright has been managing the plant for Mr. Page. He will leave the first of the week for San Diego to join Mr. Page in the Aggricrette company at that place, a company of which Mr. Page is president, assuming the position of secretary of the company. The concern is engaged extensively in the construction of structural building and the manufacture of tile.

Mr. Cope and Mr. Grant are both well known. The former learned the printing trade in the old Gazette office and both Mr. and Mr. Grant are practical printers and pleasant business men. The purchased plant will continue in the same line of business as the Page Printing company.

Carl Miller, president of the German Federation of this city, celebrated his birthday anniversary Wednesday evening by entertaining thirty-five members of the federation at his home, 1185 Wells street. TO PALE, THIN PEOPLE

Druggists Mayer Bros. Co. Offer to Pay for Samose if It Does Not Make Thin People Fat.

Pale, thin people are simply suffering from want of nourishment. They may eat enough, but their food is not properly digested and does them no good.

Samose, the remarkable flesh forming food should be used by all who are pale, weak and thin. It mingles with the food and aids assimilation, so that when taken for a short time Nature will soon assert her normal powers, and the food that is eaten will give strength and good flesh.

Weigh yourself before you commence the use of Samose, and you will notice a steady gain. Samose is a scientific flesh-forming food that restores the thin and scrawny to their proper weight, and fills the weak and debilitated with vigor and vitality.

The woman who longs for rosy cheeks and the plumpness of beauty should use Samose. The man who wants to be strong and well and gain health and good flesh will find his desires accomplished by Samose.

Such remarkable results have followed the use of Samose that Druggists Meyer Bros. Co. are willing to pay for the treatment if it does not give the desired results. They make this offer generally and want all who are thin, weak and out of health to get a box of Samose from them on those terms.

The "1900" Electric.

A Sensible Washer at A Sensible Price

It is a fact, that any mechanical device for domestic use must be simple; because the housewife must care for it. The "1900" Electric Washer and Wringer is strictly a home washer—Simple—Safe—and—Substantial.

It is different. One-half million users have found it so. There are no clumsy features about the "1900"; no heavy parts to lift. No vast amount of machinery; it works without attention, and does its work better than the best laundress.

There are many Electric Washers on the market, some have supposed superior points. However, the fact remains that the "1900" Electric has proved its worth as the perfect washer for the home.

Try one for 10 days—FREE. Try it at our expense. This is a sound argument. If the "1900" Electric does not prove itself send it back to us. Test it at our risk.

THIS CLERK QUIT DESK FOR FARM

Saved Nothing in Fifteen Years at Desk—Now He Has Land, Coin and Contentment.

(J. C. Mohler, assistant secretary Kansas State Board of Agriculture, in Kansas City Star.)

In these piping times of peace fierce battles are waging among large numbers of the employed—battles for bread among salaried men of families. Wages among the clerkships over the country have not been increased in proportion to the cost of living. Most articles of produce cost considerably more than ten years ago, and many employes are on practically the same salaries as a decade ago. This situation has caused many a head to rest uneasily on its pillow at night, trying to provoke something from a thumping, bumping brain that would point the way out. Some have tried one thing and some another; some have gone this way and some that, but not many to the farm.

Lack of experience perhaps has eliminated the farms from the minds of the majority. Experience, of course, is valuable, and often costly, but the lack of it by no means should be the governing factor in making a decision. Others already have had the experience, which should profit those coming after. Many of the cruder problems have been well worked out. In fact, in the light of present day knowledge, the new farmer should have a comparatively easy time succeeding. In a general way he needs only to intelligently follow along trails already blazed.

Not all clerks would make successful farmers, and not all farmers would make good clerks. In farming in Kansas success depends almost wholly on the man, for climate, soil, moisture, air and sunshine so providentially blend as to create conditions admirably adapted to agriculture. There is no reason why the city man should not succeed as a farmer, provided he sets himself earnestly to that end. It requires horses sense, and if he hasn't that he probably would not get along in anything, anywhere. It requires work, too, and this he will soon become accustomed to, and if he will look and listen he will soon learn.

LOG OF N. F. HOUSTON, CLERK.

- 1884—With several hundred others a clerk in the Santa Fe offices at Topeka.
- 1899—At the end of fifteen years still a clerk in the Santa Fe offices at Topeka at $75 a month. Savings, nothing.
- 1899—Purchased a farm near Topeka on payments, retaining his position temporarily.
- 1907—Sold the farm for $13,500. Saved his house rent and cost of living. Conserved his health. Laughs at the suggestion that office man cannot make good on the farm.
- 1910—His office mates of 1884 are still getting on in about the same old way.

Many examples doubtless might be cited of inexperienced men, without money, backing out of an office onto a Kansas farm and making good. At least one striking example of this has come to the writer's attention.

The Case of Houston.

In 1884 N. F. Houston was employed at Topeka in the Santa Fe offices, a big rectangular building, divided into many compartments, which are congested by the hundreds of employes, ranging from "brass buttons" to the janitor's office boy. Mr. Houston was one of this army of clerks. His time was occupied with routine work, as revising clerk in the freight auditor's department, and he was one of the best in his line. He kept faithfully at it; his pay was $75 per month. But the needs of his family outgrew his salary. Like many another office man he found his expenses overlapping his income. The chance for promotion among the hundreds of his associates was meager, for the "higher" places were scarce and the employes many. His outlook was not the rosiest. He meditated over the situation. Something must be done, and that something had to be done by him. He canvassed the possibilities of other town positions. He could see no substantial future to those available, and he was looking into the future, too, for he was already middle-aged and meant to stay with whatever he undertook, for as things go he could not reasonably expect to make other changes and prosper. Finally, he decided on the farm. He had then worked for the Santa Fe for fifteen years and didn't have a dollar to show for it. The monthly rent and provision bills gobbled up the salary. He was frugal and his family economical, but there simply wasn't enough income to meet their needs. In spite of this handicap, in 1899 he made a deal for a farm about three miles southwest of an addition to Topeka known as Quinton Heights, where the street car line ends. The farm was not considered an extra good one, and it was "run down." He was to pay $4,000 for it. The place had a very comfortable house and a ramshackle barn. He was able to make satisfactory arrangements regarding payments, and straightway moved his family to the farm, thus at once cutting off the city rent. He bought some cows, hogs and chickens. Like most other salaried office men, he was mighty timid. He was afraid to cut clear loose at one fell stroke from the corporation's payrool, so he continued his work for the Santa Fe, walking to and from the carline mornings and evenings. He milked the cows, fifteen to twenty-five of them, getting up at 4 o'clock in the morning, and after coming home in the evening often worked until midnight.

Enter the Beef Steers Hisotry.

While he was working this night and day shift between farm and town the profits from his cows showed him the way he sought. He then cut loose from his office moorings, and gave his whole attention to his farm and stock. He prospered from the beginning, but not without a great deal of hard labor. He learned from neighboring farmers who were winning. He mixed brains with his business, thus making it pay increased dividends. The dairy, from which milk and cram was delivered to town daily, brought in money regularly, to keep things moving nicely, with a little to spare each month, and his other stock were largely clear profit, the hogs when young being raised principally on grass and milk, the latter being fed warm direct from the separator. As fast as possible his herds were built up by eliminating the poorer animals, for he knew it cost as much to keep a "scrub" as a superior animal, while the returns from the latter were vastly greater. The one kind ment success, the other failure.

A Sunday Dinner Every Day.

Each morning as he stepped out into the dawning day, inhaling the invigorating ozone, he gave thanks that he was not returning to the desk that he previously occupied in the stuffy city office. He began to realize the joys of living. Out of their garden of well assorted plants came fresh vegetables and flowers; from the poultry house fresh eggs and the finest fries, and a surplus to market. From the orchard, apples, peaches and plums, and from the dairy sweet milk and rich cream. The meals, breakfast, dinner and supper (there was no "luncheon") were appetizing and wholesome, and these continuous feasts were had, too, at the cost of production, as against paying the producer's and second-man's profits formerly. There was a saving in house rent and in cost of living. With plenty of timber, wood was the fuel, and the price of coal for the first time in years unconcerned him. Likewise, he did not feel the heel of the oppressive ice-man on his neck in the summer. Where previously the relentless meter forbade him an inch of water for his bath, he now had enough, without charge to get wet all over. He didn't experience a financial chill every time a face was washed. The rattle and bang of travel and traffic over the paved streets was missing, and the babble of the multitudes was absent, and when the family retired at night it was for undisturbed reposeful slumber. All these beneficial surroundings improved the general health of the family as well. Houston's features soon showed a healthful glow that was not before in evidence. Besides this, and the full dinner pail, the pocketbook early began to show signs of obesity. Prosperity was his, as it might be anyone's who will farm intelligently in Kansas.

And He Offered Him $13,500.

Mr. Houston gradually improved his farm and it looked so good that one day eight years after Mr. Houston bought it a man came along and offered him $13,500 for the farm, more than three times the purchase price. He thought it over. It was a big sum. He was making good profits off the place. His family was living on the best in the land, were near town and happy. He had made money, met all payments promptly and his herds were growing more valuable with each passing year, and the farm more productive. But the god of Mammon won out. He sold. It was a mighty profitable eight years and he couldn't resist the temptation to clean up. Pondering over what his next step should be, he decided that if he, a greenhorn in agriculture, could make a success it must be largely owing to Kansas' natural advantages, and that his largest duty to mankind was in making this point clear to others, that they might also share in this beneficence. This philanthropic tendency finally became so well developed that he became a Kansas missionary, going about doing good and preaching the gospel of farming under Kansas conditions, praising the fertility of the soil and its bountiful yields. In other words, he became a real estate dealer, and as such he continues to prosper.

He laughs at the suggestion that an office man can't go out and make good farming, for it rests with the man, he says.

But Where Are the Deskmates?

Mr. Houston now has a comfortable competence, is his own "boss," and is engaged in congenial pursuits, but he says that the call of the farm is too insistent for him and that soon again he will be in the ranks of the Kansas farmers.

Today deskmates of Mr. Houston's of years ago are still working away at the same old jobs, at about the same old salaries, their shoulders getting a little rounder year by year. To be sure their work is useful, and they are deserving of all honor. Not all could make successful farmers, but one of their number did, to the great benefit of himself and family, and lighting the way for others who find themselves hedged in by circumstances similar to his own in 1899.

ANOTHER FAILURE

(From S. F. Bulletin, May 1, '09.)

Among many late letters announcing favorable results there are a number from physicians, all of whom have cases recovering, and one from Hot Springs, Ark., telling of the recovery of two physicians.

The same week a physician of this city reported a failure. He stated that he gave the Compound at the last moment in an extreme case of Bright's Disease and that he had no confidence in the treatment and as the patient expired a few days thereafter that it confirmed his opinion. The secret of the several successes first referred to lays in the fact that the physicians realizing the admitted futility of the orthodox treatment put themselves or their patients on the compound before they were in extremis. Not so in the last case, and the reason for the failure is obvious.

Let us illustrate: We are told that there is a physician in South San Francisco by the name of Gardner who has never had a failure in a case of typhoid fever. We don't know what his method is, but will say that when his fame causes patients to be transferred to his treatment after the attending physicians have declared the case hopeless that his failures will then commence. His successes have been in cases that sent for him while there was something to work on.

It is a fact that many cases of Bright's Disease in extremis have been rescued, but there is no certainty when the treatment is withheld until the last few days. When Fulton's Renal Compound is administered in time it matters little whether the case be chronic or not, nearly nine-tenths get results, the text books to the contrary notwithstanding.

We again say that the mere presence of albumen, casts and dropsy in the chronic stage that are supposed to make up an incurable case of Bright's Disease, is now no bar to recovery providing there is heart and vitality to work on. It is obvious that if the treatment is withheld until there is no recuperative power there will also be failures.

In view of the declared futility of everything known up to the developement of Fulton's Renal Compound we ask in the name of conscience how there can be any question in the mind of any human being as to what ought to be given in such cases and why there should be any delay in giving the only thing in the world that offers hope.

Fulton's Renal Compound can be had in your city of D. & N. Pharmacy 624 Calhoun St.

We desire to hear from every case not recovering. John J. Fulton Co., 645 Battery St., San Francisco, Cal. Literature mailed free.

WOMAN WILL HELP IMMIGRANTS

Protection for the Aliens Who Are Fleeced Daily in New York.

(New York Evening Sun.)

"Driving out of business these fakers and human parasites who prey upon the immigrants, and inducing the foreigners to move out of the congested cities, sums up in a nutshell the results I hope to help accomplish in my new place," declared Miss Frances A. Keller, who has just been appointed chief investigator in the state labor department by Commissioner John Williams.

As secretary of the North American Civic Immigrant league, Miss Kellor's experience brought to her attention many frauds and swindles practiced by fakers upon the immigrants.

"The real danger point for the aliens," explained Miss Kellor in narrating the fruits of these observations, "is at the gateway to New York city, the barge office. There they are seized upon by porters, runners, guides, express or cabmen, all apparently licensed city employes with their official badges, but all intent upon the one thing—depriving the alien of the few dollars they know he must possess in order to have been allowed to land. These human vultures trade upon his ignorance of our language, money, distances and transportation facilities. Before the New York immigrant commissioner placed investigators at this point some of the licensed men boasted that they had grafted as much as $1,000 a week from immigrants.

"The plan is to throw out a protecting wing to the alien, not only when he arrives, but afterward. For instance, information will be gathered from the various agricultural, industrial and other productive regions in the state, including public works, with a view to learning the demand for labor and facilitating the supply of proper distribution. We will ascertain the occupation for which the immigrant is best fitted and investigate the genuineness of the application for laborers.

"One of the best features of the law passed on June 18 of this year which established this bureau is the provision in regard to alien children. It provides that we shall procure a complete list, giving the names, ages and destination within the state of all immigrant children of school age. Copies of these lists will be delivered to the school boards and commissioners in the localities to which the children are destined. This will aid materially in the enforcement of the compulsory education law."

A HARROWING PASSAGE.

Galveston, Texas, Oct. 20.—Two Morgan line steamers, the Elba Elnorte, from New York, arrived here today after a harrowing experience at sea with the recent West Indian hurricane. Four men were drowned during the passage. The wind blew 100 miles an hour and the barometer fell to 27.75.

THE MAIL CLERK AND HIS TROUBLES

Jocose Idiots and Cranks Do Much to Add to the Burden of His Job.

(Washington Star.)

It does seem an easy matter to properly address a letter in order that it may slip through Uncle Sam's postal mill as speedily and safely as possible. No racking of the intellect is required in the process and but little physical exertion—simply the inscribing of a name and address. Yet in the face of this, ask the man who superintends the sorting of the mail in the city postoffice about it and if he does not throw up his hands and fervently cry, "Our lucky stars preverse us from those who don't or won't know how to address a letter!" it will be because he is too busy to do more than think his opinion.

Of the thousands of letters which go through the office weekly it is surprising to learn that hundreds of them, through faulty addresses, cause the postoffice people almost as much trouble as the handling of those that are in proper form. And the acts of this same class are also the most potent factor in keeping the wheels of industry humming in the dead letter office all the year round.

Carelessness on the part of letter writers is the cause of the appearance of most of these bothersome missives, and in this line Washington is entitled to a seat in the grandstand, as the records of the office will show. It is the careless person who drops a letter adorned with a stamp, but unadorned with an address, into the box; it is a kindred spirit who mails a letter to a friend in some distant city which the writer locates in a state having no such city within its borders.

It is one with a similar failing who directs his letter to a certain street and leaves a blank space below for the postoffice officals to fill in any city or town it may occur to them the street is situated in. It is carelessness that brings to the postoffice a neatly addressed and stamped envelope which is, however, unsealed and destitute of contents, just the sort of an affair to cause a fearful breach between two correspondents, one angry because of an unanswered letter and the other indignant because his tale of the empty envelope is discredited. But to tell of the devious and aggravating ways of the careless letter writer would take a day in itself.

Ignorance also plays its part in the letter game, as a few select specimens will show. It was certainly an ignorant person who not long ago addressed a letter to "Hishonorabieness the President," leaving it to the superior wisdom of the postmaster to guess whether the letter was a petition to the president of the United States for a position, or an appeal to the president of a glue trust for a job as laborer.

Childlike Faith of Some.

Ignorance or a childlike belief in the supernatural powers of the postal officials also inspired the following effusive, though vague, inscription of a rather dirty envelope dropped in the main office.

"To my cousin, Martha Small, who lives in Oregon and who was goin' to move to Montannel."

Another missive with a nomadic address was odorous with mystery. It was directed:

"Samuel Kramer, Milwaukee, Wis. If not, try Columbus, O., or maybe Dallas, Tex., or perhaps Bangor, Me."

A piece of handiwork worthy of the immortal "Handy Andy" is exhibited by a letter which, besides the stamp, bore only on its face this writing:

"If not delivered in ten days, postmaster will please open and return as per address inside. Stamp inclosed."

But it is not the careless and ignorant alone who clog up the postal machinery and cause the letter men to give way at times to an inclination to use words of lurid tinge and emphatic meaning.

There is a vast and growing army of cranks who seem to live only for the purpose of using the mails in their own peculiar idiotic way. In the operations of some of these there is a studied fiendishness that would suggest a gigantic conspiracy to drive postal clerks to an insane asylum or the clammy tomb.

In the first place there is the puzzle crank who imagines that a twe-cent stamp gives him the privilege of disporting, at the expense of the postal officials, his marvelous powers as an enigma maker. This is a fair sample of his work:

"F. (color) H. (Second President.)
"Seventh President,)
"10——S——C."

The envelope ought to have gone into the waste basket, but Uncle Sam's orders are to use all possible means to find the party to whom a letter is addressed. So finally a reformed puzzler in the office deciphered the address to be: "Fred H. Adams, Jackson, Tenn."

Crank Who Writes Poetry.

Next in degree of abhorrence in the minds of the letter handlers is the poetical crank. He is strongly impregnated with the idea that all the world loves a poet, and that, above all, postal clerks need some intellectual refreshment to ameliorate the hard grind of daily toil. One of these disciples of Silas Wegg caroled as follows lately:

"Oh, carrier with the willing feet,
Deliver this on Fifteenth street;
The number, thirteen twenty-four;
The town, New York, and on the door
You'll find, set in a silver frame,
That which you seek—a person's name—
James Ipson Strong—who's want a better?
And 'tis to him I send this letter."

Another allowed himself to overflow with a fragment built on the same lines as the effervescent college yell. It ran:

"Harper's, Harper's,
In Franklin Square,
New York, New York,
With haste and care."

The envelope was bulky and surely held manuscript—undoubtedly a poem, on spring—but whether that diabolical bark resembling the ululation of a mountain wolf on the war trail was to drive the postoffice to unusual exertions in forwarding the letter, or whether it was to convince the publishers that the author was a rough and ready genius of the west, who would not brook refusal of copy, can only be conjectured.

It would be supposed that the crank bent on addressing a letter to himself and have it come back after a journey around the world resembling a porous plaster from postmarks is dead. It has been announced officially scores of times that letters mailed for such a purpose will be returned to the writer by the speediest route—that is, by local carrier. Still, the round-the-world crank is on the hustle and as eagerly bent on wasting postage stamps.

BURNS AS A REVOLUTIONIST.

In 1792 He Tried to Give the French Assembly Four Cannon He Had Bought.

(Stevenson's Essay on Burns.)

Burns' only political feeling had been hitherto a sentimenal Jacobitism, no more or less respectable than that of Scott, Aytoun and the rest of what George Borrow has nicknamed the "Charlie over the water" Scotchmen. It was a sentiment almost entirely literary and picturesque in its origin, built on ballads and the adventures of the Young Chevalier; and in Burns it is the more excusable, because he lay out of the way of active politics in his youth. With the great French revolution, something living, practical and feasible appeared to him for the first time in this realm of human action. The young plowman who had desired so earnestly to rise, now reached out his sympathies to a whole nation animated with the same desire. Already in 1788 we find the old Jacobitism hand in hand with the new popular doctrine, when, in a letter of indignation against the zeal of a whig clergyman, he writes: "I dare say the American congress in 1776 will be allowed to be as able and as enlightened as the English convention was in 1688; and that their posterity will celebrate the centenary of their deliverance from us as sincerely as we do ours from the oppressive measures of the wrong-headed house of Stuart." As time wore on his sentiments grew more pronounced and even violent. Witness, were it alone this verse:

"Here's freedom to him that wad read,
Here's freedom to him that wad write:
There's nane ever feared that the truth should be heard,
But them wham the truth wad indite."

Yet his enthusiasm for the cause was scarcely guided by wisdom. Many stores are preserved of the bitter and unwise words he used: how he proposed Washington's health as an amendment to Pitt's; gave as a toast "the last verse of the last chapter of Kings," and celebrated Domouriez in a doggerel impromptu full of ridicule and hate. Nor was this the front of his offending. On February 27, 1792, he took part in the capture of an armed smuggler, bought at the subsequent sale four carronades, and dispatched them with a letter to the French assembly. Letter and guns were stopped at Dover by the English officials; there was trouble for Burns with his superiors; he was reminded firmly, however delicately, that, as a paid official, it was his duty to obey and be silent; and all the blood of this poor, proud and failing man must have rushed to his head at the humiliation.

BALLOONS TO BE HEARD FROM.

All International Contestants Believed to Be Down.

St. Louis, Oct. 20.—Six of the international balloon contestants are known to have landed, two in Wisconsin, one in Michigan and three in Canada. It is believed here that the other four are down but no reports have been received from them up to 9 o'clock this morning. Messages from North Bay, Ont., report a balloon believed to be the Germania, landed in the forest near Pomagasing, Ont.

The aeronauts who made the trip in the Aerostate sent a messenger asking aid to bring the gas bag to civilization.

So far the most exciting aerial voyage reported came from Lieut. Vogt and Wm. F. Assmann, aid, in the Harburg III, who landed in Lake Nipissing 20 miles north of Toronto, Canada.

Except for the sighting of the Helyetia by the Million club in Wisconsin early Tuesday morning, no word has come from the Swiss entry since it left here Monday. Other balloons which remain to be heard from are the Azurea, Dusseldorf II, and America II.

The four balloons have been away from St. Louis more than sixty hours.

HIGHEST HONOR GRANTED TO BELMONT ABBEY

Famous Institution Conducted by the Benedictine Monks in the Hills of North Carolina Raised by the Pope to the Rank of Cathedral Abbey, the First in the Western Hemisphere.

With ceremonies surpassing in magnificence and impressiveness any ecclesiastical event that has ever taken place in the south, the Catholic abbey at the little town of Belmont, N. C., was on Tuesday last raised to the dignity of a cathedral abbey. It is the first "Abbatia Nullius" in the Western hemisphere.

At the head of the large number of prominent Catholic clergy who took part in the solemn ceremonies were the Most Rev. Mgr. Diomede Falconio, the apostolic delegate, who was the official representative of Pope Pius X, and who promulgated the mandate of the pope conferring the highest honor on Belmont abbey. Bishop Leo Haid, vicar apostolic of North Carolina and abbot of Belmont abbey, was a most important figure, second only to the apostolic delegate himself.

By erecting Belmont abbey into a cathedral abbey, technically known in the church as an "Abbatia Nullius," Pope Pius X has conferred the highest honor or dignity possible. The abbey has complete and independent jurisdiction in all ecclesiastical matters in the eight adjacent counties, while retaining the administration of the entire state of North Carolina until in the course of affairs dioceses shall be established. This may not come in this generation.

The papal bull, dated June 13, 1910, confers upon the abbot of Belmont extraordinary privileges and makes the abbey church equal in right and power to any cathedral in the land. The good priests of Belmont deeply appreciate this favor and will endeavor to make Belmont abbey worthy of its eminence in the church. There is no cathedral abbey in the United States or in North America outside of Belmont, and probably there will be none, as all other Benedictine abbeys exist in canonical organized dioceses which could not be dismembered.

Amid Fine Surroundings.

The now famous Belmont abbey lies one mile north of the village of Belmont, which is ten miles southwest of Charlotte, N. C. A well kept highway leads to it, and the abbey is reached after passing through an avenue of fine shade trees. Massive buildings, Gothic spires surmounting the cathedral and beautiful lawns greet the stranger. The greatest Catholic college in the South Atlantic states is atached to the abbey; add to it a library of many thousands of volumes, an extensive model farm, stretching itself over nearly a thousand acres, with fine herds of choicest cattle, artistically kept parks, athletic fields, an electric light plant, waterworks of unsurpassed excellence, shops for every sort of trade, and you have Belmont abbey. It is also the residence of the Catholic bishop of North Carolina, who unites to this dignity that of a Benedictine abbot.

Belmont abbey was founded in 1876, under far from encouraging conditions. The south had not recovered from the ravages of the civil war, and the Catholic church had few friends or sympathizers in that section and especially in North Carolina. Two propositions were placed before the Chapter of St. Vincent's, the Benedictine archabbey, of Beatty, Pa., in 1876. One was a wesern university, very promising, with a liberal guarantee, and the other a plantation or wilderness in the woods of North Carolina. The plantation was a gift to Vicar Apostolic Gibbons (now cardinal and archbishop of Baltimore) from the Rev. Jeremiah O'Connell. To the great amazement of all the south, the proposition was accepted, and a band of Benedictines was sent immediately to found a monastery on the site known as Caldwell's Place, in Gaston county.

The monks dwelt in a log cabin, built a frame chapel, erected a small brick college and began at once the task of instructing the Catholic boys of the south. The attendance at first was small and the work of sustaining the college was most difficult, but by "work and prayer," the Benedictine motto, they succeeded in time.

The southern Benedictine missions of Richmond and Savannah were made independent in 1884, and Belmont abbey was made their mother house, Pope Leo XIII giving the monastery its official title. This was a great honor to so hopeless and indigent an abbey, which could not at that time claim a single priest as its own and could show only bare possibilities of ever sending forth home instructed priests.

Father Leo Haid Chosen.

Election of an abbot occurred in July, 1884, and the choice fell upon the assistant rector of St. Vincent's college, and one of its ablest professors—Father Leo Haid, O. S. B. Thus was selected one of St. Vincent's most worthy and faithful sons, who though young in years was already old in apostolic zeal, and who burned with that monastic spirit and noble self-sacrifice of the true missionary, which most aptly suited him for the difficult task of governing belmont abbey.

Two years later Abbot Leo laid the cornerstone of St. Mary's college. The same year the frame chapel was rebuilt and enlarged. The fame of the institution became widespread, students flocked to it, and its growth was rapid and gratifying. There was for a few years bitter opposition to the monastery by some of the southern Protestant bodies, but this gradually died away, and the abbey continued to prosper in peace.

Fresh honor came to Belmont in 1887, when Abbot Leo was appointed vicar apostolic of North Carolina and was enthroned the following year.

In the history of Belmont abbey important events followed in rapid succession. The college was enlarged in 1889; the forest gave place to fertile plantations under the diligent laboring hands of the lay brothers; stables, barns and other outbuildings were erected, modern improvements installed in both college and monastery, and everything showed progress.

In August, 1890, Bishop Haid was elected president by the annual chapter of the Casinese congregation. He held the office for two terms, but, owing to the many important duties laid upon the bishop-abbot, he was forced to decline a third nomination.

The next important happenings in the abbey's life were the laying of the cornerstone of the new abbey church on St. Patrick's day, 1892, and then the dedication on St. Leo's day, 1894, by Cardinal Gibbons. Many bishops, abbots and priests from every part of the country were present to witness the dedication ceremonies. The abbey church is a beautiful specimen of Gothic architecture, built of brick and granite trimming. The cost of erecting the edifice, aside from the labor of the monks themselves, approaches closely upon $40,000.

In the following year the monastery was again enlarged and place made for the accommodation of more students in the college. These and many minor improvements placed Belmont abbey among the first of monastic institutions in the south. A beautiful reproduction of the Grotto of Lourdes was built in 1890 and with all the pomp and ceremony of the Catholic church dedicated the following year.

Visited By Fire.

Fire destroyed two-thirds of the college in 1900, but the monastery was saved. Through generous aid received from all parts of the country, including liberal contributions from Protestants, a new and more beautiful college quickly sprang up from the ashes of the old.

Three years ago a large gymnasium, valued at $35,000, was erected. It is a brick structure of three stories, and contains besides the gymnasium proper an auditorium, with full equipped stage; music rooms, band hall, six recreation parlors, painting, typewriting and athletic rooms and all modern improvements—bath rooms, steam heating and electric lights. Together with this handsome edifice the buildings all told now represent probably $250,000.

It is, indeed, a wonderful transformation that twenty-five years have made; from a log cabin in the wilderness to the handsome buildings which now grace the site of Belmont abbey. How eloquently this speaks of the wonderful progress made by the promoter of Catholic instruction in the "Land of the Sky."

WOMEN WHO NEED STRENGTH

Will Be Interested in the Story of This Kansas City Woman.

After Years of Terrible Suffering She Tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and Became Well and Strong Again.

Miss Florence Whitehouse, a music teacher, of No. 536 Oakley avenue, Kansas City, Mo., found Dr. Williams' Pink Pills exactly suited to her case and her cure should encourage other women to give these pills a trial. She says:

"A few years ago I was afflicted with weakness, which followed a severe attack of malaria. I had severe pains through the small of my back and could hardly move around. It seemed that every bone in my body was sore. I was chilled through all of the time. During the warmest days of summer I would have to dress with heavy clothing. I was just like a skeleton and kept losing flesh. I would have terrible headaches. My head felt as though it was whirling around. My people thought I was going into consumption and I did not care whether I lived or not. I was sick for nearly six years.

"I was under the care of a doctor for several months. He kept me alive and that was about all. I could see no improvement under his treatment and, as a last resort, my people sent me to Excelsior Springs, Mo., thinking that the water there might help me. I did not improve much but while there I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as soon as I arrived home I began to take them. I could see a quick change after a short trial. I told my doctor what I was taking and he advised me to continue with them. He said they just hit my case. I took the pills until I became well and strong again and I have since been in good health. I cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to weak women."

Two helpful booklets, "Diseases of the Blood" and "Plain Talks to Women," giving more information about the remedy will be sent free on a postal card request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. The genuine are sold only in packages bearing the full trade-mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

"If You Only Knew What I Know"

Did you ever hear the funny Lew Fields get that off in the "Girl Behind the Counter?" Well, every time a visitor to our store hesitates in buying one of our suits or overcoats at our price of $16, that saying of Lew Fields' comes back to us, "If he only knew what we know." If he only knew that these suits and coats are the same as others charge $25 and $30 and even $35 for the same material, the same linings, the same tailoring, would he hesitate?

Almost the first customer we sold in Fort Wayne was very skeptical of our claims. When he got his suit he examined it and its fit in front of our mirror for a very long time and when he was through he merely murmured, "Why wouldn't I be satisfied when I can get two suits for the price of one?" His second order is with us now. That's the way we get our business—We never let a man get out dissatisfied. We treat our customers right, we show them the best there is, we give them the best there is and we charge not a "robber price" but

NO MORE $16 NO LESS

We give him value for his money and when he wants more clothes he knows where to come and he knows where to send his friends.

TRY IT YOURSELF

Could we go on advertising this way if we did not deliver the goods?

If our clothes did not fit and look and wear like $30 clothes, what would our customers have to say about this advertising? Believe us, we would not be doing business right now in Fort Wayne.

And let us whisper something to you: "Don't pass up our clothes because the price is LOW." Remember, the firm you represent, or own, or work for never pays one penny more than it has to for any material, so why should you? They don't care how "LOW a PRICE is so long as there is money saved and the goods are RIGHT. Do the same yourself. Get your estimates, find out who is "really" giving the best for the money, then step in HERE and leave your measure. We will give you a $30 suit and hand you back $14 change. Every little bit helps.

We don't care how big you are, or what you want, or how particular, or how hard to fit, we please you at our price of $16 or your money back.

Foley's Honey and Tar has been a reliable household medicine and the "children's children" find it today the same safe and sure remedy for all coughs and colds that their grandparents did. It is a true medicine, possesses great healing and soothing qualities, and contains no opiates and no harmful drugs. For croup and whooping cough it is a quick relief and permanent help. For all coughs and colds it is healing and soothing, does not constipate, but expels the cold from the system. It is prompt in relief and averts the danger of bronchitis and pneumonia. Mahala Stockwell, Hannibal, Missouri, writing under date of August 28, 1910, has this to say about this great medicine: "I have recently used for the first time Foley's Honey and Tar Cough Medicine. To say that I am pleased with it does not half express my feelings. It is by far the best I ever used. I had contracted a bad cold and was nearly sick in bed, having a terrible headache as well as a cough, and was threatened with pneumonia. I used but one bottle of your Foley's Honey and Tar and was completely cured. It beats all the remedies I ever used and I have used many different kinds." For sale by Dreier Bros.

CITY BREVITIES.

The store at 806 Calhoun street, which was vacated a few days ago by August Wasman, who conducted a cigar store, will be occupied by a shining parlor.

While unloading ties at Middlepoint, Ohio, George A. Wagerman, 1709 Fletcher street, had the big toe of his left foot broken by a tie falling on his foot. He was brought to Fort Wayne and attended by the company's surgeon.

Albert Mann, who quit his position as chef at the Alt Hidelberg hotel, in August, to accept a position as chef of the Alt Hidelberg in Detroit, has returned to Fort Wayne to enter upon his old position. Ed Bingham, who has been chef at the Alt Heidelberg for the past two months, has accepted a position as chef in the Bohemian cafe Lafayette.

B. M. Hutchins has resigned his position as local agent for the Continental Casuality Co. and has accepted a position as general agent with the American Liability Co. In his new position Mr. Hutchins is empowered to appoint agents for this vicinity. He will continue to maintain his headquarters in Fort Wayne, in the Shoaff building.

MAKES TRIPS IN AUTO.

County Superintendent Felger Visits Schools in That Way.

Prof. H. G. Felger, the county superintendent of schools, has been busy during the last several days visiting a number of the schools of the county. Heretofore Supt. Felger made these visits with horse and buggy. Now he uses an automobile. Early in the fall he sold his horse and buggy and now he is making his visits to the schools with the auto, which he purchased a few weeks ago, a more rapid and satisfactory way of making the long trips necessary.

Prof. Felger started on his annual school visitations last week and up to Saturday night had visited twenty schools. Up to Thursday night he had visited twenty more, among which were the schools at Woodburn. On an average, with the auto, four schools can be visited a day. With a horse and buggy two schools a day was an average. In his school visitation tours he is compelled to visit the 185 schools of the county. This heretofore has taken up very much of his time. Now he makes his visitations in less than half the time formerly consumed and thus will be able to give more and better attention to other necessary school work.

Some of his schools are eighteen and twenty miles away. With the automobile he can visit them and return to his home in this city to spend the night. Before in many cases this was impossible, necessitating him to remain away from home for two and three days at a time. The auto is proving a great convenience in his work.

A DESERT SUNSET.

(Mary Alberta Beal in the Outlook.)

A fitting close to a day of songbirds and flowers is the desert sunset! The Calico mountains to the north first announce the day's decline. Late in the afternoon its rents and gashes become masses of purple shadow, strikingly outlined by the exposed sunlit stretches which are gradually absorbed until the whole mountain is dull and lifeless. When the sun is low, the rugged range to the southeast is tinged with a rosy glow varying from a dull pink to a deep rose, into which a purple hue gradually blends till it subdues all the brightness and the purple, in turn, changes to blue. As the sun sinks out of sight the light h ,s.:4bit .... shrdl loahrdl iolou clouds in the east become softly pink, the color spreading around to the north, and finally centering in the west, where the clouds are masses of of burnished gold, which merge into a brilliant rose color. Sometimes between the bright clouds and the horizon is a stretch of delicate green, with a hint of yellow light shining through; and always, in living over a desert sunset, you will see the soft circling flight of the nighthawk skimming over the ground and hear the low call of the dove. When the brightness has faded and the blue has crept in and banished the red you draw a deep breath and feel yourself a part of the peace and quiet of the sky. You begin to understand the lure of the desert. You feel as if body and soul had always been crowded for room and had suddenly been set free in this immensity. When night falls and you lie down to sleep under the sky thickly studded with stars are clear wind-swept air caresses your cheek with a touch as soft as velvet and you fall asleep thanking God for this country of vast spaces and rugged mountains, the playground of mighty winds, and sleep under the stars is sweet and refreshing.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Late estimates on the per centage of recoveries under the new emollient treatment for Bright's Disease are as follows:

Where patient is much weakened and crises may be expected in from five to ten days, probably not more than 10% to 20% recover. Where physicians aid with efforts to restrain fatal symptoms this percentage is increased. In cases where patients have from thirty to sixty days of life the efficiency is very much higher.

Where patients do not wait until bedridden probably three-fourths yield.

And in cases that take the new emollient treatment on the appearance of the disease nearly nine out of ten respond.

Albumen Casts and dropsy do not prevent recovery. The point is that the Renal inflammation should be attacked before the heart and physical system are broken down.

The new emollient treatment is known as Fulton's Renal Compound. It can be had in Fort Wayne at the D. & N. Pharmacy, 624 Calhoun St.

We desire every patient to write us who is not noting the usual improvement by the third week. Literature mailed free. Jno. J. Fulton Co., 645 Battery St., San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

HATES INTELLECTUAL WOMAN.

"I Simply Loathe Her," Says Author of "The Little Damozel."

(Nixola Greeley Smith in the New York Evening World.)

There may be commonplace persons in New York who believe that Mr. Monckton Hoffe, of Dublin and London, reached New York on board the Cedric last Saturday. But personally I am sure that the author of "The Little Damozel" stepped right out of the pages of "David Copperfield" in the Hotel Knickerbocker. I knew he had a philosophy tucked away somewhere, because he makes his winsome Little Damozel remark, "I'm pretty bad in the big things, but I'm awfully nice in the little things, and it's the little things that count in married life."

"Life is only worth living for its emotions," Mr. Hoffe continued. "Yet the intellects of our day seem bent upon killing emotion. They find ugly scientific explanation for the most beautiful things. Intellect is fighting emotion everywhere."

And this seemed the heaven-sent moment to ask Mr. Hoffe's opinion of the intellectual woman.

"The intellectual woman!" Mr. Hoffe exclaimed, a shudder in every syllable, "I hate her, I simply loathe her!" Then as though alarmed at his own impulsiveness, he temporized. "Of course, I haven't met her in America, but with us she's always an old maid who's taken to intellect merely as a consolation for the more important things she's missed. That's where intellect fails," Mr. Hoffe added. "Emotion misses nothing, and, believe me, the regret we experience for the things we've done is not half so keen as the remorse we feel for the things we've missed."

"But isn't intellect the emergency brake of emotion?" I inquired. "When you round a corner of life suddenly and find yourself on the verge of a precipice, an emergency brake is a pretty good thing to have—especially for a woman."

"I don't believe in emergency brakes," Mr. Hoffe exclaimed. "And how do you know it's a good thing not to go over a precipice? Those who do, bruised, battered, bleeding, know at least that they have existed. They've known the supreme thrill. That's what the intellectual person misses. How I loathe that word intellectual! How I loathe the cant of literature and the drama! How I loathe the literary woman, the heaven-sent brigade, the creatures with souls!"

HELP FOR A POOR MEMORY.

Clifton Crawford Gives Advice That May Aid Those Who Forget.

(Philadelphia Times.)

"Committing to memory comes easier as you get used to it," says Clifton Crawford. "There is hope for you of the poor memory. No one denies that memory is a matter of health, poise, will and practice. When you are dull, apathetic, unenthusiastic, your senses aren't open to impressions. Nothing strikes you hard enough to leave an impression. Result—a slack memory.

"When you are one of these objectless, motiveless individuals who take no pleasure in their work, your memory can't be of the brilliant sort. When your health is poor, your blood too thin to move your thought mill, you complain of forgetfulness.

"Thees are most of the conditions that create poor memory. And now here are a few ways to counteract them, as I know from experience: If you have found the work for which you are fitted and in which you take pleasure, select certain particular facts, names or dates, and by conscious effort inscribe them on your memory tablet. Do this each day. Review them once, twice or three times before you leave in the evening or when you return in the morning.

"If you have considerable leisure and are fond of reading, each day commit to memory a line or so of poetry, some aphorism, epigram or joke. At the end of the month you'll be surprised to note how your efforts to memorize have enriched your mind. Some might even think you a prodigy.

"When your whole brain acts like a balky horse and memory suffers with the rest of it, the only thing to do is to call a halt and to rest. Overwork always results in poor memory. If you try to memorize too much you forget more than you can remember."

MANIAC AT LARGE.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 21.—William Crooks, maniac, escaped from ward number five at the Northern insane hospital last night and in a thrilling chase he managed to elude officers and hospital authorities chasing in automobiles. Cornered at a point seven miles east of this city he plunged into Eel river and swam to the opposite bank, easily disappearing into the Seven sections woods, which is seven miles square of the wildest character. Crooks, though a man advanced in years, proved wholly tireless in the long chase and approached by his pursuers he time and again sprinted across fields outdistancing them.

FAME CAME TO JULIA WARD HOWE WHEN SHE WROTE BATTLE HYMN.

Sketch of the Life and Literary Work of One of the Foremost American Women of Letters, Who Has Just Died.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, probably America's most famous woman in literature, who has just died at her summer home, Oak Glen, Middletown, R. I., was born May 27, 1819, in the city of New York in a house fronting Bowling Green. Her father was Samuel Ward, banker, scholar, traveler, art connoisseur and "friend of the great;" a pious man withal, who was as proud of his ancestry as he could have been had his descent been royal. His forefathers on both sides included hardy colonial pioneers, revolutionary soldiers and statetsmen of New England, where his noted daughter has spent most of her life, although he chose New York for his field of action.

Julia Ward's mother died when the child was only 5 years old, and her father was so overcome that he closed up the beautiful Bowling Green house and removed to the corner of Broadway and Bond street, then to the remote edge of the city, where a fringe of new houses joined a region still mainly given over to farming. There were several children, one of whom, named after his father, became known on the continents as a typical man of the world of his time and the best judge alive of things to eat. For "Sam Ward, the bon vivant," was a brother of Julia, although this has been forgotten very generally.

Battle Hymn Brings Fame.

Julia Ward Howe belonged to the Suffrage Old Guard for years, but is best known, of course, as the author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." Important as it has been in creating her fame and keeping it alive, however, the writing of these verses should be considered only an incident in her career.

It was the "Battle Hymn" which made and will preserve Mrs. Howe's fame as a lyrist. The familiar story of its production has peculiar interest as a bit of psychic history, accounting for a burst of magnificent war music full of prophetic swell and sweep, from a poet who has elsewhere written in a much milder vein. First, every most powerful stimulus to the imagination was present. With all public-minded Boston burning with interest in war questions, her husband and many friends among the leaders, Governor Andrew, an intimate of their house, her ardent and responsive temperament was filled with the spirit and with longing to lend some aid in the struggle.

Follows Suggestion.

As the train bearing her, Dr. Howe, Governor Andrews and James Freeman Clarke neared Washington it is easy to conceive the stir of feeling with which she looked out upon "the watch fires of a hundred circling camps." Later, when their carriage was delayed on a road blocked with troops, her own voice led in "John Brown's Body," until the soldiers caught up and thundered the swinging chorus.

Even the direct word of suggestion was not lacking, for Mr. Clarke said, "Why don't you write some good words for that stirring tune?"

The next morning in the graw dawn she lay like a sweet instrument keyed for great harmonies. It is the hour when the happiest and most unexpected flashes are wont to come to her, as they were to Milton, as they are to many less fortunate. Gradually the lines shaped themselves. It is an intensely interesting incident, this tuning of what she has called her "slender reed" to the thunders, until it could voice a might war peal.

Stood for Progress.

Mrs. Howe was a member of one of those old American families which made up the aristocratic element, so called, in colonial and subcolonial days, that now is being submerged by the ever rising tide of the new "aristocracy" of great wealth.

Her personal memory covered more than half of the life of this nation; but in spite of her age she was a "new woman" in the best sense. She was a survivor of subcolonial days—a living link with the simpler past—and a member of the advance guard in the movement for the progress of her sex.

Julia Ward's personal romance began when she was 22. She had been educated by tutors and in a fashionable boarding school under the close supervision of her father, who was conservatism personified, but she was imbued already with the doctrine of equal rights for the two sexes, although it was long before she made known her views. In 1841 she and her father passed the summer near Boston, where she met Longfellow, Charles Sumner, Oliver Wendell Holmes and other men of ideals. One day, at some gathering of which she was a member, Sumner exclaimed:

"Oh, here comes the doctor on his black horse!"

Drives Over Europe.

Miss Ward looked and saw, as she said ingenuously in print, "A noble looking man, riding a noble black horse." It was Dr. Samuel Howe, expert in teaching the blind, and at least 20 years older than herself. They fell in love speedily and were married two years later. On their wedding journey they drove all over Europe in a carriage, there being no railroads then. Horace Mann, the educator, was their traveling companion. They met Dickens; the poet, Tom Moore; Carlyle, Sidney Smith and about every one else worth knowing in the old world.

Dr. Howe knew Europe already; he had fought romantically with the Greeks against the Turks, along with Lord Byron, in 1824. He was himself known in Europe because it was he who, with infinite patience and ingenuity, had awakened the consciousness and trained the intelligence of Laura Bridgeman, born blind, deaf and dumb. Her education was a greater wonder even than that of Helen Keller, born similarly afflicted, who has been similarly educated.

Future Rightly Predicted.

Dr. Howe died in 1876, some years after his wife had won her fame with the pen, although she began to write for print when 17, and was counted so intellectual that a then popular woman writer expressed the hope that "some day little Miss Ward would lift her dainty skirts just enough to let the public know whether her stockings really are blue or not." Her first book was publishd in 1854.

She took up the suffage cause in earnest in 1868. She had made many addresses on many topics since then before public meetings, on the lecture platform and from the pulpit. One of her most noteworthy talks was delivered in Italian in 1906, when she was 87, at a celebration by Boston Italians of the 400th anniversary of the death of Columbus. She wrote poems, essays and newspaper articles. She organized the Woman's Ministerial Conference 25 years ago, and for more than 20 years was at the head of the women's clubs in New England.

One of her daughters married Michael Anagmo, a Greek, who is now superintendent of an institution for the blind, as Dr. Howe was before him. Maud Howe, her literarydaughter, married John Elliott, the English painter. Her brother, the famous Sam Ward, long since dead, married a daughter of the first John Jacob Astor.

Headed Women's Clubs.

After the death of her husband Mrs. Howe lectured, wrote and traveled much in the United States and Europe.

Always a firm believer in woman's clubs, Mrs. Howe was president for many years of the first one to be organized, the New England Woman's club. She was also president of the Society for the Advancement of Women, of the Woman's Ministerial Conference and of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs. She was the founder of the Saturday Morning club of Boston and was active in establishing the Home club of East Boston. Her city home was in Beacon street, Boston. She delighted in quiet, old-fashioned games of an evening with her children and grandchildren. She was always ready to play an accompaniment or a lively jig to add to the pleasure of the young people. She never passed an opportunity for a joke.

Canada's production of 102,000,000 bushels of wheat, only 18,000,000 bushels behind the excellent crop of 1909, is considered a very good showing.

GERRYMANDER INVENTION OF A BAY STATE GOVERNOR.

Interesting Origin of Political Trick Whereby Dominant Party Obtained Excessive Fruits of Power by Unique Arrangement of Districts.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Recent newspaper stories indicate that the fate of the "gerrymander" hangs in the balance. Interest in this is increased because of the fact that Caleb Powers is running for congress in the Eleventh congressional district of Kentucky. The formation of the district is in issue before the supreme court of the United States to determine a state's power to gerrymander its territory.

Unless the supreme court throws the case out on a question of jurisdiction or some other point of law the decision may have a widespread bearing on the proposed reapportionment of next year. Kentucky republicans claim that the democratic state legislature has always manipulated matters so as to make congressional districts as safely democratic as possible, and a case was brought before the courts of Kentucky to determine how far redistricting might be attempted. The courts there held that they were not clothed with powers to question the discretion exercised by the legislature in redistricting a state for congressional purposes.

The case was brought to the supreme court of the United States on the claim that the Kentucky statutes were invalid because of conflict with congressional enactments providing that the districts should be composed of "contiguous and compact" territory. Such enactments have been passed by congress following each census in the last thirty years, but no test of the force of the words has been made before the supreme court. Thus far the legislatures of the various states have been free to create districts according to their opinions, and the determination of the Kentucky case will be watched with interest to see if the powers of legislatures in this particular are to be limited.

The word gerrymander came out of Massachusetts during the year these United States tried conclusions with Great Britain for the second time. The apportionment act of February 11, 1812, suggests the name, owing to the fact that some of the districts were formed into fantastic shapes. Towns were separated and single towns were isolated from their proper counties. As a matter of history it stands almost alone as the rankest bit of work of the character ever attempted in American politics.

Nathan Hale, one of the editors of the Boston Weekly Messenger, published a map exhibiting the two Essex districts in the edition of his paper of March 6, and the paper stated at that time: "The county of Essex has been divided into two districts to which the ingenious carvers have been unwilling to assign names. The district, of which the extremes are Salisbury, on the north of the Merrimac river, and Chelsea may be properly called by the name which children give to a letter in the alphabet, 'crooked S,' or one district may be denominated concave and the other convex, as one of them fits into the other very much as the half of a small egg may be put into half the shell of a larger egg."

The map was displayed by J. G. Cogswell, afterward librarian of the Astor library, at a dinner at Colonel Thorndike's house in Sumner street. Here it was examined and discussed, and some one remarked that the outer district but needed wings to resemble a prehistoric monster. The suggestion was at once acted upon by the artist, Elkanah Tisdale. Some one called for a name for the figure, and a guest proposed the term salamander. Another guest, thought to be Mr. Alsop, quickly protested and suggested that as Governor Gerry had signed the bill and permitted it to become a law, it should be named after him—hence the word gerrymander.

The illustration of this story is from a reproduction from the Boston Gazette of March 26, 1812. The intervening space between the wings and the fowls was supposed to present a caricature of Governor Gerry. The nose of the figure is at Middleton and the chin at Lynnfield. The word was immediately seized upon by the federalist press and widely circulated, in connection with the illustration, for campaign purposes. The democratic newspapers remained silent on the subject.

The word gerrymander has been the means of most widely perpetuating the memory of Governor Elbridge Gerry. He was probably not the originator of the apportionment law of 1812, but he gave the measure sufficient approval to enable it to be enacted into law. Before the bill was debated in the legislature the governor was accused of engendering political animosities and party spirit.

It was contended that some of the laws he had recommended were partisan in nature and were intended materially to aid his party. It is quite likely that Governor Gerry's name was used to describe partisan election districts for the reason that he was thought to be a pronounced partisan in matters which had arisen prior to the districting law.

Governor Gerry confessed that he did not deny the position taken by Mr. Madison: "The majority will generally violate justice when they have an interest in doing so."

It has been argued that the originator of the Massachusetts law of 1812 was Samuel Dana, president of the senate at the time. Other names have been suggested. One Boston newspaper hinted that Judge Story formed the plan. Story was in the legislature and was speaker of the house until January 18, when he resigned his seat in the legislature to become a justice of the supreme court of the United States.

Elbridge Gerry was one of the most illustrious of the early American statesmen. Born in Marblehead, Mass., July 7, 1744, he graduated from Harvard college in 1762. His father, who was born in England, was a successful merchant and young Gerry entered his counting house when he graduated from school. He rapidly became one of the most successfully influential and wealthy merchants of the day.

He began his political career as a member of the assembly of Massachusetts, then called the general court, in May, 1773, and was appointed a member of the important committee of inquiry and correspondence. In 1775 the provincial congress appointed him a member of the committee on public safety and supplies. The night previous to the battle of Lexington he was almost captured by British soldiers.

In January, 1776, Mr. Gerry was elected to the continental congress and continued in that body, except at slight intervals, for nine years. As a member of the committee on supplies he visited General Washington's army in camp in 1777 and did much to further the cause. His attitude in congress was significant and forceful. He was prominent in support of all resolutions against theatrical entertainments, horse racing and other such diversions, and equally strong for all measures recommending days of fasting, humiliation and prayer.

In 1787 he was a member of the convention which framed the constitution of the United States, he having been one of the men who signed the Declaration of Independence. As he was opposed to the plan adopted, conceiving that both the executive and the legislature were granted powers that were both ambiguous and dangerous, he refused to sign the instrument.

The republican party elected him to the first congress after the adoption of the constitution and re-elected him in 1791. In 1797, when the relations between France and the United States were somewhat strained, President Adams appointed C. C. Pinckney, John Marshall, afterward chief justice of the supreme court, and Gerry to proceed to France and arrange the difficulty. Under the advice of Talleyrand the directory of France refused to recognize the embassy, but, after stipulating that Pinckney and Marshall should return home, did recognize Gerry, and he finally completed an amicable arrangement between the two countries.

In 1810 Elbridge Gerry was elected governor of Massachusetts and held the office during two terms. He aroused much animosity owing to his arbitrary methods of government and employed to the fullest the partisan principle, "to the victors belong the spoils." He was severely attacked by the press for his high handed administration of affairs, but this served to cause him to go further.

Elected Vice President.

The famous gerrymander was carried out during his second term, and this resulted in his defeat at the following election, in 1812. However, his devotion to his party was rewarded, and he was made vice president of the United States, succeeding George Clinton, who died in office during the administration of James Madison. He also died in office, and his tomb, in Washington, bears the inscription:

The tomb of
ELBRIDGE GERRY,
Vice President of the United States who died suddenly on his way to the Capitol, as President of the Senate.
November 23, 1814.
Aged 70.

A gerrymander is not a natural condition or division. It is one established especially for election purposes and formed intentionally in a particular manner for partisan advantage. It is always formed with design and in preference to divisions which would be more favorable to the opposition.

It is the aim of the party forming the gerrymander to make its votes count the most in an election and the vote of the opposition as little as possible. The result is usually accomplished by forming into a few districts territory where the vote is overwhelmingly in favor of the opposition, and, on the other hand, by spreading out the vote of the dominant party to carry the remaining districts by a safe margin. It is a system of political discrimination for the purpose of taking an undue advantage of a rival.

It is the strong arm game of the bully in politics. To quote Dr. Griffith: "Where the gerrymander gives result as planned, it is as fatal to the minority as the secret rebates are to the less fortunate rival corporation. Competition may be said to cease, being stifled for the time being; corruption follows, and an honest treatment is unknown wherever discrimination of any kind prevails."

While 1812 is an important date as the year in which the gerrymander was named, the practice is as old as the practice of popular elections by districts in this country. The first appearance of this unequal political division was based upon Penn's charter of 1701. When Penn arranged for the separation of the city of Philadelphia from its county he sought to give the rural districts of the county their own representation, free from the political dictation of the city, but its effect was to restrict unduly the political influence of Philadelphia.

It is to be presumed that William Penn attempted to equalize representation, but since his day there has been no such excuse offered, and the gerrymander has become an institution in American politics. Despite efforts to destroy its effects, it has grown and flourished, and today it is a recognized force in party politics. To again quote Dr. Griffith: "One of the political practices most threatening to a republican form of government continues to be the gerrymander."

ANNOUNCES CHOLERA REMEDY.

Professor Willing to Infect Self to Prove Benetol Efficient.

St. Paul, Oct. 21.—Prof. H. C. Carel, of the University of Minnesota, for many years head of the medical chemistry and toxicology and chemist to the Minnesota state board of health, has discovered a chemical that will revolutionize the warfare upon germ life and bring success in cases where the physician heretofore has been baffled.

The new chemical, which he calls benetol, is eight times as strong as carbolic acid and yet is not a poison. Never before have physicians been able to give doses of any disinfectant in sufficient strength to kill germs.

Professor Carel, in speaking of the new chemical, said: "I am so confident in benetol that I am willing to submit myself to cholera infection to prove that it can be successfully treated with my discovery. It may be difficult for the lay mind to realize the great benefits of the powerful germicide, which can be taken internally. It means that internal infection can be arrested just as effectually by its use as external infection has been in the past."

FASHIONS OF FORTY YEARS AGO.

The Delineator's First Illustrations Pictured Women Who Wore Hoopskirts.

(Delineator for November.)

It was to illustrate the fashions of forty years ago that the Delineator was started. We may turn the yellowed pages of musty old magazines and find pictured there the women for whom these first Delineators were made.

The promenade of the day was along Broadway above Canal street. Here ultra-fashionable femininity walked with the mincing gait that was styled the "Grecian bend." They wore green gloves and carried green sun shades, "Metternich green," because the Princess Metternich had appeared at a ball at the Tuileries in a dress of this hue. Little girls in gabrielle dresses and white Marseilles sun hats went by with their nurses. And among them the little girls who had come from the country were still wearing antalettes. Matrons wore bonnets tied beneath their chins and modestly folded their shawls about them. Black lace shawls they had for summer, and paisley and cashmere shawls for cooler weather. They paid for these all the way from $50 to several hundred or a thousand. An imported point lace shawl was even quoted at $3,000.

Oh, feminine finery could be expensive in those days as now! It is interesting to note the items which an old Delineator gives as the cost of a girl of the period: Boots, $10; stockings, $2; garters, 50 cents; silk underwear, $20; satin corset, $20; corset cover, $12; chemise, $20; cambric and steel hoops $20; puffed haircloth pannier, $4; flannel underskirt, $10; cambric underskirt, $18; walking skirt next to hoop, $8; over walking skirt, $10; gloves, $2.25; fur and snow shade in lace, $125; velvet walking suit, lace and sable trimmed, $1,000; hat, $75; total, $1,396.25.

But those undoubtedly were very high society figures and higher because of the paper money of the day. Anyhow, the majority of the throng moving up and down lower Broadway bought their steel bustles at a dollar or less and their hoopskirts ranged in price from $1 up to $12. Their alpacas cost from 40 cents to $1.25 a yard, English wineys from 37 cents to 75 cents, and French poplins, $2.75 a yard. For their black silks they could pay from $3 to as high as $20 a yard. But a black silk "did" as a "best" dress for a lifetime.

The pleasant purgative effect experienced by all who use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and the healthy condition of the body and mind which they create, makes one feel joyful. Sold by all dealers.

The Lancet says in horror and disgust: "The present legislative machinery, if it can not stop the abuse of preservatives, should obviously be scrapped and new works installed." Thus must be a painful confession against Britain's unfailing boast of honesty.—New York Press.

The Boxiest Looking, "Foxiest" Looking Great-Coats in Town

ANY clothier can sell you an overcoat. Nearly any price will buy you an overcoat. Go where you will and try as hard as you can and you'll not find overcoat styles such as these. Look at them closely. Let your eye travel up and down and all around. Have you ever seen coats which you can conscientiously compare with them?

Unfortunately we can't show you the fabrics here, but they're English as can be. In pattern they are not only handsome, but absolutely exclusive. And what is more, we haven't what you would call a huge assortment. We have enough coats, probably, to supply the demand, but we figure that not every man wants such a clever garment. Even the buttons were selected because of their unusualness---because they added value and were "different."

Brandegee, Kincaid & Co. of Utica, New York, designed and made these great-coats, and they claim they are the smartest coats in America, and contain the highest grade of tailoring. Will you come and give us your opinion, and will you slip into a few?

WILL TALK ON WATERWAYS.

S. A. Thompson, Well Known Authority, at Commercial Club Tonight.

S. A. Thompson, field secretary of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, will speak before the members of the Fort Wayne Commercial club this evening. For the past twenty-five years Mr. Thompson has devoted himself to the study of waterways, and has won the distinction of being recognized as one of the leading authorities in the country on this subject.

Mr. Thompson first began the study of waterway problems while in the newspaper business at Duluth, Minn. He was elected secretary of the chamber of commerce of that city, and in this capacity became one of the well known figures to Washington correspondents, from appearing so often before the committee on rivers and harbors.

The Detroit deep waterways convention selected him as one of two speakers to present the resolutions of the convention to the committee of congress. He has been interested in numerous other waterway questions, and his thorough knowledge of the subject, and a well known faculty for presenting it in an entertaining manner, is expected to bring a good attendance at the meeting tonight.

Throat and Bronchial Troubles

The old-time methods of treating throat and bronchial troubles by sprays and swabs have given way to better methods by the up-to-date physician. Respiratory diseases yield more readily to oxyoline and electrical treatments than to medicines or a change of climate. In the treatment of chronic coughs, catarrh and sore throats, better results can be secured by this method than in any other way.

Oxyoline is a wonderful new electrical product for inhalation, superior to ozone. One treatment will accomplish more than a week's outdoor life in the most ideal climate. Those who have been unable to secure satisfactory results from ordinary treatment are invited to investigate the merits of this treatment.

THE OLDEST WOMAN.

Believed to be the oldest woman in the world, a peasant living in the village of Pavelsko, Bulgaria, was born, according to the register in the Greek Orthodox church there, in 1784. The woman, whose name is Baba Vasilka, has spent 100 years of her life working in the fields.

She now lives on an income contributed by her descendants, each of whom—and they number over a hundred—down to her great-great-grandchildren, contributes a small sum for her support, says Home Notes. Mme. Vasilka is in full possession of her senses.

Her eldest son is well on in the nineties and still works in the fields.

These cases are remarkable even among the long lived Bulgarian peasants.
